LIBERAL LEADER BREWSTER IN REPLY TO ORATORICAL OUTBURSTS AT NEW WESTMINSTER CONSERVATIVE MEETING

Liberal Leader Asks What the McBride-Bowser Administration Intends Doing to Prevent Slums Being Established in British Columbia Cities When Immigrants Come Through Panama Canal

Small Capitalist Shut Out Because of Land Given to Speculators; Employment Must Be Found for Thousands Who Will Come

Vancouver, June 3.—While Sir Richard McBride, Attorney-General Bowser and lesser lights in the Conservative firmament were proceeding at full steam last night at the Arena, New Westminster, in oratorical splendor regarding the prosperity of British Columbia, they did not state what the government had failed to do to provide for the destinies of this province, so H. C. Brewster, Liberal leader, steps before the light of public opinion and gives a review of the ten years administration of the Conservative party.

In ten years, says Mr. Brewster, the government has practically thrown away the inheritance of nature to the people in the way of natural resources and other assets. The distribution of timber areas to the faithful and the disposal of the richest agricultural lands to speculators redounds nothing to the credit of an administration which appears to have been bereft of foresight, states Mr. Brewster.

Not only that, but the McBride administration, in its wild eagerness to humbly bow before the will of railway corporations, has seen fit to pay no attention to the consequences. Sir Richard has said that there must be railroads, and no genuine settler can hope for any government action to provide facilities for those who would like to reap the reward of their labors from the soil. Wait, patiently wait, and murrain not, says Sir Richard, who declares that above all, that there must be railroads. Yet, declares Mr. Brewster, Sir Richard has never yet explained how the building of these roads so heavily subsidized will be of advantage to the small settler who wishes to work the land.

Then again, says the Liberal leader, it is more than a coincidence that the speculators always seem to know where the railroads are going to be built, and lose no time in picking out the best country. These lands are held by those who never intend to cultivate them. Stiff prices must be paid. The land is held simply to make huge profits, so that the man with small capital wishing to become a bona-fide settler is shut out.

Mr. Brewster asks what the government has done, or will do, to settle the large numbers of immigrants on the land when the boats come through this port. The west, and particularly the Pacific coast, will receive tremendous numbers. Montreal, for long the front door for the immigrants, will remain so no longer. Vancouver will be the front door. And what is the government doing to provide for the tens of thousands who will arrive? Echo answers what? Will the immigrants be thrown on the cities, and will slums be established as a result, or will there be lands for the newcomers?

There must be employment found, but Mr. Brewster says there will be a bigger supply than demand, since no land will be available, since it is held by the speculators, territory will be restricted for those who would wish to take up agriculture. Reference is made to the coal areas in this province, which Mr. Brewster says should be right belong to the people of British Columbia. The government, he claims, has taken no steps to protect the people from exploitation at the hands of the big interests.

Regarding the rights of workers, the work of the government in its ten years' existence has been practically naught. McBride and his crew have taken no steps suggested by the Liberals and Socialists to protect miners and others. All along the side of capital has been encouraged to the detriment of the classes.

The finances of the province have been in stock for railway and other work, but no thought has ever been turned to the future to attempt to realize the conditions which will arise by extravagant expenditure.

As regards the attitude of the government, which has willy-nilly swept along with Attorney-General Bowser in his stand against the laws of the land being enforced, Mr. Brewster has nothing but scathing condemnation. He says that the record of the Conservative party during the past ten years is one of which even few Tories can be justly proud.

IMPORTING MINERS FOR ISLAND MINES

Told at Winnipeg of Strike Conditions Men Say They Will Not Work

Winnipeg, June 3.—Sixty miners from Cumberland, England, passed through Winnipeg last night bound for Vancouver Island, where they are being transported for the purpose of working in the Vancouver Island coal mines. They were engaged in England for this purpose.

While in Winnipeg they were informed that there is a coal miners' strike now on in the Vancouver Island mines, and said it was the first information they had received of such conditions. On learning the fact one and all declared they would not work in the mines against the union men, being unionists themselves.

The information was conveyed to them by Business Agent Ruge, of the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council, who met the train on its arrival. The men said they had been engaged in England to work on Vancouver Island, and that they had been given no information that there was a strike in progress.

MAKES PASSENGER ALTITUDE RECORD

Buc, France, June 3.—The world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying pilot and passenger, was broken to-day by Edmond Perreyon, the French aviator, who rose to a height of 16,268 feet, or 31-10 miles. Perreyon also holds the altitude record for an aeroplane carrying only a pilot, having risen to a height of 19,650 feet at Buc, March 13, this year.

NOW PLAN TO KILL THE DERBY WINNER

Militant Suffragettes Propose New Means to Hold Attention of Public

London, June 3.—Stopping at nothing save, perhaps, the sacrifice of human life, the militant suffragettes have decided to wage war in the kingdom of sport, and the latest threat is made against the winner of the Derby, the greatest horse race in the world, which will be decided at Epsom on Wednesday.

Three hundred thousand dollars worth of horseflesh at one diabolical blow will be reduced to nothing. The fate of the victor at the blue riband of the turf hangs in the balance. His doom has already been planned by the all-destructive suffragettes.

The suffragettes have determined to make history this year. In the sphere of politics their actions have been restricted to sundry attacks on cabinet ministers and others. To the farthest corners of the world on Wednesday will be flashed the result of the English Derby and the suffragettes hope that corresponding publicity will be given to their deed of killing the winner of the event.

Recently the suffragettes poisoned a champion Pekingese dog, valued at $10,000. The owner, it is said by the Pall Mall Gazette, has received an anonymous message to the effect that the dog had to be sacrificed to the cause.

The message continued: "Every valuable prize winning race-horse, such as the Derby winner, shall be maimed or destroyed when the chance presents itself, until we get votes for women."

WESTMINSTER RALLY MATTER OF FEALTY

Three Thousand, Half Liberals Go to See Flag Waving Performance

Premier Again Goes Back on His Former Platform for Pacific Defence

Westminster, June 3.—As a demonstration of a tenth political birthday, last night's Conservative rally at New Westminster was a distinct frost from the standpoint of numbers, only about 3,000 people attending, where twice or three times that number had been expected. As a demonstration of fealty in a party leader, however, the demonstration was a decided success.

The premier's speech was largely one of flag-waving, which was appropriate under all the circumstances, the vast arena having been handsomely decorated with flags and mottoes descriptive of the loyalty of British Columbia to the Empire and the throne and of loyalty of British Columbia Conservatives to Sir Richard McBride. The premier was most robust in his denunciation of the action of the senate in rejecting the naval aid bill, using the fact that to-day is the King's birthday to indulge in his eloquent phrases of Imperialistic policy. Incidentally he had some compliments to pay to his opponents in the Liberal party, and the Liberal press.

The only new announcement of the meeting was a statement by Hon. Dr. Young that President Westbrook, of the University, had persuaded the premier to advance $2,000,000 out of the treasury for the immediate construction of the university buildings. There was much disappointment at the non-appearance of Hon. W. J. Bowser.

Hon. W. R. Ross, "the baby of the cabinet," as the minister of lands is known, opened the proceedings in a speech in which he paid many compliments to New Westminster, not only as the birthplace of Sir Richard McBride, but as the place which "put the cross into lacrosse," and also as the place which had the distinction of canning more fish and having bigger bank robberies than any other city. He played into the record of the McBride government for the past ten years, and accused the Liberals of trying to pervert the public mind in regard to the administration of the land laws of the province.

One reform for which he claimed credit was that it was now possible for any would-be settler to get any information about lands upon request; another was that he had created a forestry service which was without an equal in Canada.

"I notice from my reading of the Liberal newspapers that my friend Mr. H. C. Brewster, has been elected as leader of the Liberal party. (Applause). We know him. We like him. We wish him well. May he long remain leader of the Liberal party. (Applause from half of the audience) and of the opposition (applause from the other half).

Hon. H. E. Young boasted that the McBride government had been "a business administration," and declared that it was proud of its record as a business administration. He took credit for giving the people free textbooks, and also for having advanced money for the construction of schools, glorying in the fact that the government had "broken the ice" by supplying schools to the pioneers of the community.

WOULD DISCONTINUE RAILWAY SUBSIDIES

Conservative Member for Peterboro Says Companies Should Not Be Aided

OPPOSES MINISTER'S RESOLUTION IN HOUSE

Few Supplementary Estimates is Only Remaining Business at Ottawa

ELEVATORS AT MOOSE JAW AND SASKATOON

Ottawa, June 3.—On a motion in the House of Commons this morning to take up the subsidies to be granted to railways in accordance with Hon. Mr. White's resolution, J. H. Burnham, Conservative member for Peterboro, made a general protest against railway subsidies.

"As far as I am personally concerned," said Mr. Burnham, "the time has come when we should cease granting subsidies for railway purposes. The railroads should build their own line. I firmly believe in that policy and hope the day will soon come when there will be no more railway subsidies."

It is unlikely that parliament will vote many more subsidies for railways projected through the older settled districts. When the subsidy for the line from Port Burwell to London was under consideration, William German, of Welland, pointed out that it was first voted in 1903. It had been re-voted every year since but nothing had been done in the way of construction. He said he was tempted to move to have this subsidy struck from the list and would certainly do so next year if construction of the line is not commenced.

"I will support it," remarked Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of railways. It is understood that this subsidy will not be voted again unless something is done by the company," said Mr. Germain. He added that parliament should decline to vote subsidies for roads in thinly-settled sections of the country. The proposed Port Burwell-London railway, it was explained by the minister during the course of the session, is a Grand Trunk enterprise.

When Geo. H. Bradbury, of Selkirk, moved the adoption of the report of the committee on the pollution of streams, Sir Wilfrid Laurier raised no objection to the form of the report. It was recommended that a conference should be held during the recess between the Provincial and Dominion authorities and the members of the waterways commission. Sir Wilfrid pointed out that as soon as the House rises the committee will cease to exist. Mr. Bradbury agreed to have the report rest so as to conform with the rules of the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that a statement had been promised as to the business to come before the House before prorogation. "Would there be any new bills?" he asked.

"There will be nothing apart from a few more supplementary estimates," said Mr. Borden. "These will be brought down to-day."

W. A. Buchanan, of Medicine Hat, in answer to a statement of a statement contained in a despatch from Moose Jaw that the first interior elevator for Saskatchewan, would be erected at Moose Jaw, and the first Alberta elevator at Calgary.

Hon. G. Perley, acting minister of trade and commerce, said a report had been received from the grain commission recommending that interior elevators be located at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon. No recommendation had yet been received as to where the first elevator would be located in Alberta. He assured Mr. Buchanan that the recommendation of the grain commission would be acted upon, and that sites would be purchased and tenders called for the construction of the elevators at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon as soon as possible.

CONGRATULATE KING GEORGE ON BIRTHDAY

Presbyterian Congress Sends Cablegram to London From Toronto To-day

MASSEY HALL CROWDED TO UTMOST CAPACITY

Problem of Non-Anglo-Saxon People in Canada Theme of Discussion

SERIOUS PROBLEM IN FUTURE IMMIGRATION

Toronto, June 3.—The Presbyterian Eucharist Congress is in full tide to-day, Massey hall being crowded to the roof at the morning session. A feature of the forenoon hearing was the forwarding of a cablegram to King George, congratulating him on the anniversary of his birth. This item was not on the programme. It apparently suddenly occurred to the chairman, Rev. Dr. MacKay, that action might be taken. He began to speak of the matter, when the big organ of the hall, without announcement, began to boom out the stirring tunes of the National Anthem. The audience at once arose and joined in the words. Rev. Dr. Carman, the venerable general superintendent of the Methodist church, who sat beside Rev. Dr. MacKay on the platform, led in prayer for blessing on the King and the Empire.

The addresses of the morning were all above the average, the speakers sharing in the enthusiasm of the occasion. Great surprises were afforded by men whose names were almost wholly unknown. The theme was the problem presented by the presence in Canada of large numbers of non-English speaking, non-Anglo-Saxon people. M. C. Kinsal, a Christian Jew, now a missionary to the miners of Sydney, C. B., moved by some of the statements made with reference to the foreign population came most vigorously to their defence, stating that the Anglo-Saxons in Canada, was by his negligence and indifference largely responsible for the condition of the foreigner. He declared that the enemies of the foreigner were the saloon-keeper, the slave-driving employer and the usurper.

Rev. W. D. Reid, of Montreal, formerly superintendent of missions in Alberta declared that the nation was facing the most serious problem in connection with immigration that any nation has every considered. Immigration into Canada in proportion to the population was very much greater than immigration into the United States had ever been.

AUSTRALIA LIBERALS HOPEFUL OF VICTORY

Labor Supporters Claim Majority of Five From Final Returns

Melbourne, June 3.—The Liberal journals are still hopeful of victory, the majority of them considering that their party will be returned with thirty-nine members of the House of Representatives, which would give them a majority of three. The Liberals have gained five seats in Victoria and probably will gain eight in New South Wales besides already having one in West Australia, the most democratic state of all.

Labor has gained two seats in Victoria, one in New South Wales, one in Queensland, one in South Australia and one in West Australia. The latest returns, up to noon to-day, indicate the likelihood of the Labor party being returned with a much decreased majority, declares an afternoon Liberal paper. It is considered by Labor supporters that there may possibly be a margin of five, while others less hopeful place the number at four. It is, however, conceded by one Liberal organ, that Labor will have a working majority.

MASSON UNABLE TO BLOW UP GUNBOATS

Douglas, Ariz., June 3.—A. M. Williams, a Douglas aviator who has been flying with Didier Masson in his Guaymas experiments, returned to Douglas to-day and reports that Masson is not able to manipulate his machine at a height sufficient for safety and has given up his attempt to blow up federal gunboats in Guaymas harbor. He says that it has been decided to use the machine only in scout work.

Williams also reports that the state troops are short of ammunition and water and there has been no fighting for the last two weeks except skirmishes.

LONDON COUNCIL AND THE CRYSTAL PALACE

Earl of Plymouth Has Option to Purchase Building for £230,000

London, June 3.—The London county council is discussing the question of the relation of the council to the scheme for acquiring the Crystal Palace and grounds for the benefit of the public. As is well known, the Earl of Plymouth has the option of purchasing the palace for £230,000 and if the local authorities will raise half that sum the lord mayor is prepared to open a fund to secure the remainder.

The general purposes committee recently carried a resolution to the effect that the council should contribute £50,000, provided that the scheme should be subject to the approval of the committee. At a subsequent meeting the committee rescinded this resolution and carried a resolution to the effect that the council would be prepared to make a substantial contribution, and that the council had very great sympathy with the object.

The difficulty is that the buildings as well as the grounds are involved in the question, and it is not yet known how much or how little is to be acquired under the lord mayor's scheme. There is difference of opinion, also, as to the condition of the buildings, and there are questions to be settled as to the existing leases of the property both within and without the county. All these matters have to be settled before the council can safely say what contribution it is prepared to make and on what terms it is prepared to make it.

TORONTO CONGRESS MEMORIAL MEETING

Crowds Gather in Massey Hall and Cooke's Church to Hear Speakers

CHURCH FAILING TO MAKE PROPER GAINS

Toronto, June 3.—Three sessions of the Presbyterian eucharistic congress culminated last night in two memorial mass meetings. These were held in Massey hall and Cooke's church, both of which were crowded to excess. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Murdoch Mackenzie, a missionary from Honan; Rev. C. M. Wright, of Fort George; and Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, of St. Stephens, Winnipeg.

During the afternoon addresses were made by Dr. Falconer, principal of Toronto University; Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, of Montreal, minister of what is said to be the wealthiest Presbyterian church in the Dominion; Rev. A. Macgillivray, well-known from his connection for many years with the Sunday school work of the church, and Rev. R. D. Fraser, editor of the Sunday school papers of the denomination.

Dr. Fraser paid a compliment to the press, volunteering the statement that he was aware there was no metropolitan paper in Canada which could not safely be taken into a Canadian home, and that the weekly papers, of which there were 1,300 printed in the Dominion, followed closely the lead of the great dailies in this regard.

Dr. Macgillivray, in speaking of the rights of children and emphasizing the statement that the church and the state ought to seek to give a chance to the child unfortunate in parentage, made the statement that in Toronto in 1912 there were buried about one hundred infants whose fathers were unknown and whose mothers did not deprecate the deaths.

In the majority of these cases no minister was asked to offer a prayer, as the body was laid in the potter's field. Dr. Macgillivray also said that in spite of the vast machinery at the command of the church, there were fewer of the children of Presbyterian schools taken into full membership in 1912 than in 1911, and fewer in 1911 than in 1910.

The church was not only failing to make gains from the world, but was also failing to hold in its membership the children trained in its schools. Not more than 15 per cent of the boys in the Sunday schools, he said, were received in full communion.

Dr. Mackenzie, in his evening address, dealt with the opportunity for the noble work in China, of the work which had been done in that land and of the opening which was presented owing to the change in the civil government of the nation.

WHERE CANADA GETS HER COTTON GOODS

Importations From Great Britain Are First With United States Second

TREBLED DURING THE LAST TWELVE YEARS

Washington, D. C., June 3.—The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, in a report on the cotton goods trade and industry of Canada, just completed, shows that the United States is second only to Great Britain in supplying cotton goods to Canada.

The import of manufactures of cotton comes almost entirely from England and the United States, the former usually supplying about two-thirds and the latter about one-fourth of the total. Switzerland ships embroidery and lace; Germany, hosiery and embroidery; and France, some lace, embroidery, velveteens and women's clothing, but outside of these specialties the market for foreign cottons is dominated entirely by England and the United States.

The following table of the imports of cottons into Canada in 1905, 1910 and 1912 gives a good idea of the amounts supplied by various nations:

Countries	1905	1910	1912
U. Kingdom	$6,094,594	$13,114,594	$14,373,064
U. States	2,002,902	3,402,231	5,974,016
Switzerland	341,893	582,468	1,007,991
Germany	224,810	577,976	717,843
France	100,712	2,070,769	432,116
All other	68,888	189,158	162,003
Total	$8,732,899	$18,891,209	$22,757,033

Canadian imports of cotton goods have more than trebled in the last 12 years, and they have about quadrupled in the last 15 years. During the period from 1905 to 1912 the total imports of cottons increased by 231 per cent, while English cottons increased by 209.13 per cent, American by 232.58 per cent, and those from other countries by 253.67 per cent. The latter figures, however, are larger than they actually are, as embroidery and lace were formerly stated separately from the cotton schedule, but now white and cream colored cotton embroideries are included under that schedule.

In the manufacturing of cotton goods, the Canadian mills are not keeping pace with the demands of their home market, but they are enlarging, and if a line is imported in considerable quantities they soon get out an imitation. However, on some lines of American goods, such as duckings, fleeces, printed scrims, Stiefels, and blue drills, in spite of many attempts, they have not been able to make an article that will meet the demands of the consumers. The preferential duty tends to keep out American piece goods to a large extent, but the importers say that in some cases goods if they were made to suit the market.

SENATOR BOSTOCK REFERS TO HINDUS

Five Thousand Come to Canada; Claim of Ill-Treatment Made

SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO BRING THEIR WIVES

Ottawa, June 3.—In the Upper House yesterday Senator Bostock brought up the question of Hindus in Canada, and a report that they were being ill-treated. He quoted figures to show that some five thousand had come to Canada. He stated that they were not adapted to Canadian conditions or Canada's climate and approved of the arrangement made by Hon. Mackenzie King with the British government, which has practically stopped all Hindu arrivals in Canada since 1908. The government of India expressed its appreciation of the action of Canada. The present government had not given the attention it should have to an application by the Hindus in Canada to be allowed to bring in their wives. The result was that agitators in India had stirred up feeling.

Sensor Douglas said he had been in India for many years and had practical experience with the Sikhs. The action of British Columbia towards the Sikhs was un-Christian, un-British and ungrateful. The Sikhs were splendid men who had fought under the British flag. To inflict upon these men the cruelty of depriving them of the association of their wives was a thing unworthy of any part of the British Empire. In British Columbia the question was not one of race, but of labor organizations. The Canadian climate was not suitable to these men, and he would advise them to stay at home; but those who came should not be deprived of their wives and children.

Sensor Davis said it was strange that a citizen of British India should not be allowed to travel in any part of the British Empire. The province was not against all classes of Oriental labor. Last year 7,705 Chinese came in, paying $500 head tax each, or $3,850,000, of which British Columbia got about one and three-quarter millions. The province wanted the money for some Chinese, but they did not want Sikhs who were brave men. There seemed to be every reason to follow the example of the United States and exclude Chinese altogether. The Sikhs might as well be allowed to enter the Empire for which they had fought. At the coronation he had seen Sikhs marching in the same procession with Canadian soldiers.

Hon. Mr. Loughheed said the range of discussion was wide and had dealt not only with the Hindus, but the Chinese question. Senator Loughheed said that the law of India forbade emigration of its people, yet between 1904 and 1908 the late government had permitted over 5,000 of them to enter Canada. If wives and children were excluded, it was the late government which had excluded them. If the climate of Canada was harsh to Sikh men, how much more reason was there to prevent the women and children being exposed to it. More than half of the Sikhs had already left Canada. The late government had made the financial arrangement for division of the head tax money with British Columbia. If there were any blue the present government was not entitled to it. The question of Oriental immigration was one of the most difficult with which Canada had to deal. Its difficulty was shown by the experience which the American government was having with California and the Japanese. It would be difficult to fly in the face of the sentiment of the Pacific province and British Columbia was against the admission of the Hindus. The application for the admission of Sikh women and children had been made to the late government. The whole matter was under consideration.

WOULD STOP SETTLERS COMING INTO CANADA

Washington, D. C., June 3.—President Wilson was strongly urged to-day to adopt a more liberal policy toward settlers in Colorado and other western states if Americans are to be kept from going to Canada and taking up Canadian lands.

The great bulk of lands desirable for settlement had been withdrawn by the government in past years until there was comparatively little left. Besides this the policy of the interior department has been to hamper settlers in so many ways as seriously to hinder cap efforts to increase population by settlement.

They declared that practically everything is done to prevent the acquisition of lands rather than to promote settlement by individual settlers.

LIBERALS WIN TWO SEATS.

Quebec, June 3.—After one of the hardest political contests that has taken place in the country for years, Dorchester remains in the Liberal column for the present legislature. For over a week both parties made a strenuous effort to carry the seat. With one poll to hear from, Bassett (Conservative) received 462 majority in the districts he carried, while Cannon (Liberal) received 539.

The Liberals gained a sweeping victory in Nicolet to-day when Mr. Trahan, their candidate, took a majority of more than 800 votes over his

Which is best? ## CLEAN UP MAJORITY OF BILLS IN HOUSE

Hon. W. T. White Does Not Criticize Senate for Changes in Bank Act

Ottawa, June 3.—The House made a clean-up of the majority of the bills on the order paper yesterday. Half a dozen were given their final reading, while others were advanced to such a stage that they can be dealt with at one or two sittings of the House.

The most interesting development occurred in connection with the consideration of a few amendments made by the Senate to the Bank Act. Some of the members criticised the minister of finance for not opposing the changes made by the Upper House.

Hon. W. T. White maintained that they were not important enough to quarrel about, and he had no desire to delay the prorogation of the House.

When the motion to concur was put, a division was demanded and ten members voted "Nay," including four from the West, Messrs. McPherson, Bennett and Stevens (Conservative), and Buchanan (Liberal). The division stood 33 to 10.

The bills dealt with included the act to provide salaries for new judges in various provinces, and the bill respecting forest reserves in Western Canada, under which it is proposed to add land not fit for agricultural use to some of the reserves and take away some good agricultural lands from others. No serious objection was taken to the bill by the opposition, which was given a second reading and passed through the committee stage.

When the bill to provide for a wireless service across the Atlantic was taken up at a late hour, Hon. R. Lemieux once more advocated a state owned cable. He doubted if much relief would be given by the proposed contract with the British Wireless Syndicate.

Hon. L. P. Pelletier was more optimistic, and predicted satisfactory results from the arrangements.

JOHN BURNS SPEAKS ON EMIGRATION

Says Exodus From Great Britain Due to Education Enterprise and Imagination

Manchester, Eng., June 3.—In a speech delivered at the Free Trade hall, and which was devoted almost entirely to the subject of free trade, John Burns says that one of the arguments favored by the protectionists against free trade was that it had made Britain inferior to protected countries, and that that could be proved by the extent to which people were emigrating to the colonies and dominions.

The answer to that, Mr. Burns said, was that emigration was always greatest when trade was good, wages high, and labor in demand. The emigration in Great Britain was not due to economic misery, but to increased education, to enterprise and to imagination. Free trade had enabled 4,000 millions of money to be made out of the rest of the world and invested in foreign countries, and it yielded 200 millions a year. Men followed British capital to the colonies and to new countries, and got higher remuneration than they would get at home. When a reason is looked for at home to explain emigration it was found in the desire which men felt for land.

Emigration from Scotland had reached a record in the past two years, but the reason was not that the Scottish workman could not get employment, but because the younger sons of farmers and craftsmen, who did not wish to displace their fathers and older brothers, went to Canada and Australia to settle on the land before it was taken up by people of other nationalities.

FORTY OF LEOPARD SOCIETY WERE HUNG

Travellers From the Gold Coast Tell of Trial of One Hundred

London, June 3.—Convicted of cannibalism and human sacrifices, forty members of the "Leopard Society," a secret organization, have been hanged in Sierra Leone, a British colony on the west coast of Africa.

Sir William Brandford Griffith, chief justice of the Gold Coast, who presided at the trials, arrived at Plymouth yesterday. He declined to discuss the case, but fellow travellers said that 100 members of the society had been arrested, and that forty of them had been hanged, while many had been sentenced to deportation.

The "Leopard Society" has existed among the Mendi tribe and caused trouble to the government. All natives failing to conform to its rites or submit to its demands are subject to death or slavery.

MILITARY IRRITATION OVER REICHSTAG BILL

Rejection of Three Out of Six New Regiments Demanded is Being Opposed

Berlin, June 3.—The action of the Reichstag in sanctioning only three of the six new cavalry regiments demanded by the army bill has caused more irritation in military circles than anything else the Reichstag has done.

There is a strong movement on foot to get the full House to reverse the action of the budget committee, when the bill comes before it, and the papers are busily engaged in pointing out the great value of cavalry regiments in war.

The Koelnische Zeitung points to the success of General French in the Boer war, to the success of Salich Pasha in bringing the Bulgarians to standstill, and to the success of the Turkish infantry to escape, and to the success of the Austrian reserve cavalry at Koniggratz as proof of the value of cavalry in war. It also says that the retreat of the Russian army at Mukden would have been turned into a catastrophe had the Japanese had a cavalry division at their disposal.

In the Tag, General von Bernhardt, the retired cavalry officer, maintains that cavalry are still necessary for reconnaissance work. The experience of the Boer and Balkan wars, he says, is no guide for a great European war, and he adds that the government must insist on six new cavalry regiments, and dissolve the Reichstag rather than give way on that point.

It is declared by a number of Centre party papers that negotiations which are being initiated between the government and the Reichstag may result in the whole cost of the new army bills being borne by the "extraordinary" levy upon property. This levy, it is said, will yield a larger amount than has hitherto been supposed, and it would be possible in this way to avoid imposing additional permanent taxation, which would cause political conflict. This story of government negotiations may be true, but is more likely to be the invention of clerical politicians.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

To-day the King celebrates his forty-eighth birthday. In the three years which have elapsed since he ascended the throne he has more than fulfilled the expectations of the myriads who owe him allegiance. Much was expected of him, because he was really the first Imperial prince of the royal line. He was the first of the British ruling house in the line of succession to familiarize himself at first hand with the peoples and conditions of the many countries over whose destinies he was to preside. We question if any statesman at Westminster has a wider grasp of Imperial affairs—not so much affairs of state as those which more intimately concern the progress and aspirations of the people themselves. His service in the navy on various stations and his tours of the different dominions have brought him into contact with their plain citizenry and impressed upon him the fact that the problems of the humblest are as much matters of Imperial concern as the majestically imposing developments of high state policy.

That this is his view the last three years have clearly shown. He delights to interest himself in those who tread the humbler walks of life, to learn their needs and to share their joys and sorrows. He keeps close to his people, not because he does not wholly trust them, but because he is sincerely concerned in their welfare. Both he and his gracious consort give less place to pride, pomp and circumstance than their predecessors. Simple and domestic in their habits, devoted to their home life, kindly and considerate to everybody, they have strengthened the invisible cords which reach out from the throne to the four corners of the earth. And wherever the meteor flag waves to-day there is but one sentiment—the earnest hope that the King will long be spared to fill the exalted station to which he was called three years ago.

AS AUSTRALIA SEES IT.

The London Chronicle publishes an interesting article on the Australian naval policy from its correspondent at Melbourne. The writer says that so much has been made of the struggle in the Canadian parliament of the policy of subsidy proposed by the Canadian and New Zealand ministries that Australians are beginning to think that the time has come for reminding the empire that the policy of local navies, linked up in emergencies with the British navy, still holds the field as the one solution of the Imperial and colonial defence problem. "When the first cruiser for the Australian navy unit, the H. M. A. S. Melbourne, arrived here a short time ago," the correspondent writes, "the occasion was used through the Labor ministry and Liberal press to say this in unmistakable terms. There was not a word of criticism of the policy of other Dominions, but in the speeches made at the welcome banquet given to the officers of the Melbourne by the prime minister very significant emphasis was laid upon the success of Australia in joining together local patriotism and Imperial obligation in a system which achieved four ends:

- "1. The creation of a National Australian navy owned, manned and controlled by the Commonwealth parliament, and capable of representing the empire in the Pacific.
- "2. The construction, equipment, and manning of that navy on lines laid down after the fullest discussion with the Admiralty, and under the direction of experts or instructors lent by or completely transferred from the British navy.
- "3. The establishment of training ships and a naval college, through which Australians will man and officer in future all their ships, in accordance with the methods and traditions of the British navy.
- "4. The making of an agreement between the Commonwealth and the Imperial governments under which in a given emergency the mere receipt in Melbourne of a wireless message from the Admiralty would lead to the placing of the entire Australian navy at the disposal of the nearest Imperial admiral for service anywhere.

"I have reason to think that great importance is attached to these speeches in high quarters. Verbatim reports have been sent to London for the perusal of Imperial ministers. Besides a restatement of the case comprehended by the foregoing four features of the Australian naval system Labor ministers were at pains to set out very clearly their appreciation of the generous aid extended to them by the Asquith government and the Admiralty advisers. Labor men regard Liberals as their sworn foes in Australia, but the Imperial Liberal government of Great Britain and its Admiralty staff are their very good friends, and a fit subject for eulogy and high praise."

The writer clearly shows that the Admiralty policy with respect to Australia is to build up the Australian navy and to assist the Commonwealth in every conceivable way to train her own men for the Australian and Imperial services. Already 1,800 Australian seamen have been recruited, and 28 midshipmen are in training at the Royal Naval College at Geelong. Every ship of the Australian naval unit has been paid for down to the last penny out of revenue; and the new ships included in the programme outlined by the prime minister on March 31 at Maryborough will be financed in the same way.

Continuing he says: "This new naval programme, by the way, is very popular. The new battleship, which is to be the companion of the Australia, will, with the additional torpedo-boats, etc., enable two fully-equipped squadrons to be floated, dividing the patrolling of the Commonwealth coast, and yet so co-ordinated as to enable mobilization to be accomplished in a few days.

"Rightly or wrongly—I believe rightly—Australians feel that their policy, now endorsed by both political parties, must be followed by Canada and South Africa before another decade has passed. They believe that New Zealand will be forced to submit to the naval leadership and protection of Australia, and to play her part as an owner and partner in an Australasian navy, instead of paying the interest on a dreadnought loan, and 'chirping' their sea defence from the Motherland."

Australia clearly understands the issue in Canada to be a Canadian navy versus a contribution. Mr. Borden in one of his latest speeches has shown that as far as he is concerned there will be no Canadian navy. He says that if, in a general election on the navy issue the Liberals won, they could have the three ships transferred to Canada. But it will be observed that he himself does not propose that this shall be done under his own permanent policy. All the Canadian people have before them are the proposal to contribute three ships, to be stationed at Gibraltar, and the alternative proposal suggested by Sir Wilfrid Laurier ed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as follows:

"What is the remedy? In our humble judgment, the remedy is this, that wherever, in the distant seas, or in the distant countries—in Australia, Canada or elsewhere—a British ship has been removed to allow of concentration in European waters, that ship should be replaced by a ship built, maintained, equipped and manned by the young nation immediately concerned. If the young nations of the empire take hold of the equipment and manning of ships to look after the distant seas, concentration can easily take place in the waters of Europe, and the British Admiralty knows what zones it has to defend. This is the Australian policy; this ought to be the Canadian policy."

BRITAIN GAINS.

The net result of the Balkan war as far as Great Britain is concerned is the strengthening of her influence and power in the eastern Mediterranean. The demoralization of Turkey should tighten the British grip on Egypt which has been exercised in the form of a protectorate for more than thirty years. The people of Egypt must realize the blessings of British rule made conspicuous by comparison with the hopeless collapse of the Ottoman empire in Europe, of which their country was nominally a tributary state. When the victorious allies battered down the gates of Adrianople, Scutari and Jannina they struck shattering blows at the slowly waning prestige of the Sublime Porte in Egypt.

But Britain gains more than moral strength in Egypt. She acquires absolute ownership of Cyprus of classic history, Cyprus the happy hunting ground of the student, archaeologist and antiquarian. Over this important strategic island she has enjoyed a protectorate, as in Egypt, since 1878, but even the shadow of authority now falls from the nerveless hand of the Porte. Both Egypt and Cyprus are of tremendous importance to British prestige and power. They give her a position in the Mediterranean with which her security in India is inseparably bound. It was with the object of snatching India from Great Britain and proclaiming himself Emperor of the East that Napoleon Bonaparte invaded Egypt. "Egypt," he said, "is the key to India, and I must have it."

Another time he exclaimed, "France, mistress of Egypt, would be mistress of India." He obtained neither, but his foresight has been vindicated by Britain's foreign policy, which overlooks no opportunity of strengthening the Empire's commercial and strategic position in the eastern Mediterranean. It was with this purpose in mind that Britain guaranteed the integrity of the Turkish Empire, a guarantee she and the other powers gracefully dropped overboard when the Balkan allies buried their conquering armies into the Sultan's territories. But she is stronger at the point where it is necessary she should be strong than at any other time in her glorious history.

"Nothing Canadian can live that has not Canadian national sentiment behind it." Compressed into a single short but comprehensive sentence, that is the most effective criticism that has been uttered against the Borden naval bill. It would be well if some who possibly may have deluded themselves into the belief that they are Imperialists—although as a matter of fact most of them are merely party politicians lusting for office—would pick up these words of Sir George Ross and weigh carefully their import.

Now the property men and stage setters have arranged that "Rule Britannia" shall be sung when the great Sir Richard appears before the footlights. Why not go a step further and make it "God Save the King," or a little further yet, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The grand finale in apothecosis must come some day.

Mr. Bourassa has stated that the Nationalist party owed its origin to the position taken by Laurier in sending Canadian troops to assist Great Britain in the South African war. It must be a proud position for the Jinglo-Conservative party to have its policies dictated by the Nationalist party born under such auspices.

Due to Natural Causes.—Heart disease was given as the cause of the death of Robert Reid by the coroner's jury which sat yesterday afternoon to hear the evidence. Dr. Miller stated that the heart was badly affected and that this was the sole cause of the collapse of the deceased. Dr. Walter Barty acted in the absence of the coroner.

Constable Resigns.—Constable Geo. Cassidy, who has been the provincial officer at Ladysmith for some twenty years, has resigned as the result of ill-health. He will take a rest on his farm near that city and his friends hope that this will restore him to his customary robust health.

Reservoir is Full.—With the additional supply of water from Esquimalt the city has now been able to fill up the Smith Hill Reservoir to capacity and there is now 14,000,000 gallons of water in reserve, without the sign of a leak or weakness of any kind in the reservoir.

Supervised Playgrounds.—Supervision of the city playgrounds began yesterday at Beacon Hill and North Ward parks when Walter Small, T. Dines and Miss Jarvis took up their duties for the summer, continuing on the grounds with the children until after 3 o'clock directing their various games.

Committee to Consider It.—The form of contract between the city and the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Company regarding the company's use of Constance street, was referred to the mayor and streets committee by the council last night with power to sign if the wording proved to be in accordance with the terms decided upon by the city.

Chess Room to Re-open.—The chess room at the public library which has been closed this week, will be reopened the beginning of July as a children's room, the chess tables having been removed to the end of the main reading room. Yesterday the new rule which is to be observed during the next few months, and by which the library closes every evening at 9 o'clock, came into force. This applies also to Saturdays.

Opposed Market Street Spur.—An application from the Vancouver Island Properties and Securities, Limited, for leave to have a spur track of the Victoria & Sidney railway along Market street to Rose street, was opposed by Alderman Porter at last night's council meeting on the ground that railway activity was to be confined to the reserve henceforth and tracks along residential streets were to be avoided. The application was referred to the engineer.

Nuisance in King's Road.—That three residents in the neighborhood of the corner of Cook street and King's road be notified by the solicitor that they must immediately abate the nuisance arising from the overflow from septic tanks into the street or be prosecuted, and that the engineer prepare a plan to rectify the difficulties in which these people find themselves from lack of sewerage was a resolution passed by the city council last night. Alderman Humber and one or two others wanted to prosecute the people at once.

Mrs. O'Neil Gets $1,450.—The arbitrators have awarded Mrs. O'Neil $1,450 for the damage done to her property at the corner of Suffolk and Dalton streets owing to the lowering of the grades in those streets. She asked $4,000.

Keep Back the Money.—As a result of Mr. Justice McCreary's decision that the Westholme Company's plant at Sooke Lake should go into the hands of the receiver City Solicitor Robertson recommended last night that the plant be purchased from him, and the money be deducted from the sum now held by the city as a hold-back against the company for the proper execution of the contract.

Protect the Workmen.—Complaint that the city by-law respecting scaffolding around buildings in course of erection or repair did not go far enough was voiced in a letter from the Trades and Labor Council to the city council last night. The letter expressed the opinion that working men should be not compelled to go on a scaffold unless they were convinced that it was safe themselves.

Start Work on Site.—Surveyors have been started to work by the Hudson's Bay Company in obtaining levels and measurements on the company's property at the corner of Douglas street and Flanagan street. The data will be used for the guidance of contractors in making the excavation for the new block which the company proposes building.

Women's Institute Conference.—There will be a district conference of the members of the Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island on Thursday and Friday of this week at the parliament buildings, for the discussion of questions in connection with the work of the organizations. Several addresses will be given during the course of the conference, and next week a similar conference will be held on the lower Mainland.

Takes Up Residence Here.—George Agnew, a prominent business man of the city of Rossland, has just arrived in this city to take up his residence here. Mr. Agnew was one of Rossland's most respected citizens and had carried on business there for fourteen years. When he left the city last month, his departure synchronized with the passing of a special resolution of the Rossland Board of Trade appraising the business merits of Mr. Agnew, and wishing him happiness and success in his new home.

VICTORIA EXHIBIT.

Board of Trade Committee Will Meet to Discuss Subject to-morrow.

To-morrow the board of trade committee on manufactures will meet in the board room to take up and thresh out the matter of a Made-in-Victoria exhibit at the fall fair. So general has been the response to the appeal for a home exhibit, for which it will be remembered it was found indispensable that a special building should be erected, that the committee are encouraged to move forward with the scheme. All applications for space in the exhibit should be sent to the secretary before the meeting to-morrow. In any case the postal cards which have been circulated should be returned by the various manufacturers in order that the committee may know just where they stand.

ADJOURN FOR SUMMER.

Lady Douglas Chapter, I. O. O. E. Will Not Meet Until September.

At the meeting of the Lady Douglas Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire yesterday afternoon in the King's Daughters' rest room, Mrs. McKicking, the regent, in the chair, it was decided to adjourn for the summer, and the next meeting of the chapter will not take place until September. Mrs. McDonald, the secretary, submitted her resignation, and Mrs. D. Donald was appointed secretary pro tem. A considerable amount of correspondence was read to the meeting, and the regent reported that she had presented the prizes to the school children who had successfully competed in the essay competition held some months ago. Other business during the afternoon included matters in connection with the recent kindness, business details of which could not be retitled at present owing to the committee of management not having completed its report.

To keep tea well, it is absolutely necessary that it should be hermetically sealed because of the great sensitivity to air and moisture, and to almost anything there might be in the atmosphere. That is why "Salada" Tea is packed in sealed lead packets.

DELEGATES PLEASED

Revelstoke Accorded Hospitable Welcome to Representatives at Liberal Convention.

The kindness of the reception tendered the Liberal delegates who attended the convention at Revelstoke by the people of the capital of Canada's Alps is a matter of general comment among the Victoria men who have just returned. Mayor Thomas Kilpatrick was untiring in his attentions to the delegates, although politically he belongs to the other camp, and other citizens were as thoughtful. The president and committee of the Revelstoke Club gave the visitors the freedom of the comfortable premises during their stay.

On Saturday, when the delegates had some time to devote to seeing the city and the country surrounding it, they were taken in motor cars for a long trip, and were delighted with all they saw of the thriving city, of the rich country immediately about it and the scenic wealth to which it is the gateway.

From Sicamous telegrams were sent back to the mayor and to the president of the club by H. C. Brewster on behalf of the delegates. To these he later received answers: Mayor Kilpatrick replied: "On behalf of Revelstoke citizens of all shades of political opinion I acknowledge your thanks and extend hearty invitation to visit us again."

The sentiments of the members of the Revelstoke Club were expressed epigrammatically: "White men always respect white men. Come again."

TEACH BOYS TO SWIM.

Tank at the Y. M. C. A. Will Be Open All Summer—Facilities for School Boys.

Possession of the ability to swim by every boy in the city is the ideal which has been set up by H. G. Beall, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and the association will do its share towards realizing this by making available the swimming tank during the summer months.

In the day-time opportunity will be given to the schoolboys to perfect themselves in the art of swimming, and in the evening those who work in the day will have their chance. Mr. Beall will act as instructor, and under his guidance few of the boys in Victoria who cannot yet swim should remain without this very desirable knowledge.

Mr. Beall is asking the school board to allow time to be taken by the boys out of school hours for these lessons, and to assist in getting the consent of parents. The lessons will be free.

NURSES HEAR LECTURE

Bacteriology Forms Subject of Interesting Address—Vancouver Convention.

An interesting lecture on bacteriology was given by one of the Victoria doctors at the meeting of the Victoria Nurses' Club at the Alexandra Club yesterday afternoon. It was followed by a number of questions from those in the audience.

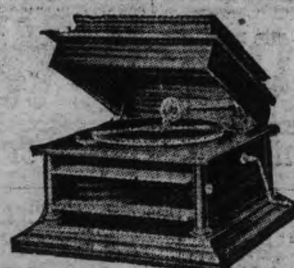

The forthcoming annual convention of the Graduate Nurses' Association, which is to be held in Vancouver on June 13 and 14, was discussed during the afternoon. The following is the programme which will be carried through at that time, the convention to take place in the board of trade rooms:

June 13—Morning session 10.30 a. m. Invocation; president's address, Miss C. Wright; secretary-treasurer's report Miss E. Breeze; new business; election of officers; adjournment. Afternoon session, 2 p. m. Address of welcome, Dr. Procter; address of welcome on behalf of Nurses, Miss E. Trew, president V. G. N. A.; reply, Miss McDonald, superintendent Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B. C.; paper, "The Educational Requirements for Admission to Registration," Miss Scott, superintendent Royal Columbian Hospital; discussion led by Miss Randall, superintendent Vancouver General Hospital; paper, Miss Gillis, "Tubercular Situation in Vancouver"; discussion led by Miss Patten, superintendent Royal Inland Hospital, Kamloops. Dance in evening at General Hospital.

June 14—Morning session 10.30 a. m. Paper, Miss Norcross, Victoria, B. C.; discussion, paper, "Social Service Work," Miss W. G. Macleod, Vancouver; discussion led by Miss Bone, Vancouver, B. C.; enrollment of new members; adjournment.

The officers of the association are president, Miss Wright, New Westminster; first vice-president, Miss McDonald, Victoria; second vice-president, Miss Randall, Vancouver; third vice-president, Miss Patten, Kamloops; secretary-treasurer, Miss E. Breeze, Vancouver.

Catholic Immigration Society.—Bishop Macdonald is making plans in connection with the reception of Catholic immigrants coming to this city, and is making inquiries in the East as to the methods in vogue by the Catholic Immigration Societies there who meet incoming boats at Montreal, Halifax, Quebec and other ports of entry, and see that the immigrants are provided with decent lodgings on landings. In several instances these societies also find employment for the immigrant, and in the course of time it is probable that the work will be extended here in such a manner that the organization will erect a special building to carry on the work.

"THE LIFE OF THE CAMP"

This is the weather for camping! People are hiking to the open places by the hundreds these days and the poor, unfortunate stay-at-homes are missing something that helps to make life more worth while. But, whether you are camping or staying at home this summer, there is one friend that will cheer you in dull hours and make your hours of joy more keenly delightful,

The Columbia

Columbias have been called "the Life of the Camp," and that is no exaggeration. Whether it be for an evening around the campfire or a picnic excursion from camp to some nearby glade or island, the Columbia may be made one of the party and, whatever the demand, it will "hold up its end" better than any other "member of the bunch." The Columbia does more to get people together, to help in the entertaining and to solidify friendship than any other one agency. It is a great out-of-doors instrument.

Since you can have a genuine, incomparable Columbia for only a few dollars down, and enjoy it while you pay the balance in small instalments, there is no need to wait longer. The golden Summer days are here. Why not come in and select the Columbia YOU want to-day, or, in any event, this week?

The original term "Safety" as applied to Bicycles, was, and is, often a misnomer. With the "Singer," that marvel of modern mechanical perfection, it is true from every point of view. The man or woman who buys a "Singer" is safe indeed. Safe in knowing that the money expended has procured a machine that is perfect in detail and irreproachable in appearance—safe in trusting the solidity of the cycle under the most trying conditions—safe from further expenditure for constant trouble-some repairs. Buy a "Singer" then and know that you are safe.

JAPANESE LINER ARRIVES AT NOON

Sanuki Maru Comes To-morrow From Orient With Silk; Busy Week-End

Next of the Nippon Yusen fleet to berth will be the Sanuki Maru, which will arrive at quarantine to-morrow at 10 a.m. She should draw alongside her berth at the outer wharf by noon. She has 136 passengers for Victoria and 100 for Seattle, together with 436 tons for this port. She is taking the sailing of the Inaba Maru.

Word has been received by the local agents, R. P. Rithet & Co., of the movements of the Chicago Maru, the next Osaka liner to appear here. She left Yokohama on Friday for this port, and has about 131 steerage passengers, of whom 106 are Chinese. The Chicago will show up next week.

Between the arrival of these two Oriental vessels, Saturday will see the arrival of the Empress of Russia on her maiden trip, and also of the Blue Funnel liner Keemun, although it is possible that the Holt liner will arrive on Friday, which is her schedule date. As she has 168 Orientals, apart from returning passengers who make the total to 300, the immigration officials have in prospect a busy time. The Protestants of this line, will leave to-morrow week. She is now completing her cargo on the Sound. The Ajax, the intermediary steamer, will soon be on her way across the Pacific, Dodwell & Company, the agents, counting upon her showing up about June 21.

In addition to the Empress of Russia, whose reception cannot fail to be marked as the latest development of palatial magnificence in Pacific travel, and the Keemun, it is not improbable that the Arna, the Norwegian steamer under direct charter to the United States Steel Products Company, for whom Evans, Coleman & Evans are agents, which is bringing a large cargo for Victoria and Vancouver, will also be in on the last day of the present week. There will be an unusually busy scene at the docks on that day.

An ineffectual attempt was made last evening to communicate with the Empress of Russia by wireless. Business has been somewhat quiet so far this week at the outer wharf, but it appears that the latter part will afford plenty of occupation for shipping men.

To bring the Empress of Russia up to Vancouver, Captain William Eitter-shank will come to Victoria to meet her. He is the senior Vancouver pilot, and was engaged in the profession prior to the formation of the Vancouver branch.

The British sloop Dunsyre, after loading lumber at Chemainus, has arrived to pick up a crew, some ten men being required to fill out her complement. She leaves for Sydney at once.

RAINBOW WILL BE PUT INTO DRYDOCK SOON

It is stated on good authority that H. M. C. S. Rainbow will be drydocked about the middle of the present month, before being laid up after the expiration of the service of her crew.

After the Lord Derby is through this week there is to be a private steamer receive attention, and it is understood that the drydock is to be available by June 15. Some of the officers are obtaining transfers to other vessels. The majority of the men will have their time expire in July.

A watch crew will be placed in charge of the vessel after she goes out of commission.

YOKOHAMA MARU LEAVES FOR ORIENT

Development of Nippon Yusen Business Will Bring Larger Steamers Here

Leaving with a full cargo and large passenger list, the Yokohama Maru will get away from the outer wharves this afternoon for the Orient. A number of prominent Americans with business associations in the Far East, and also leading Japanese residents, have booked for Yokohama.

The large amount of business which is offering to the Nippon line, as with the other trans-Pacific Japanese lines like the Toyo Kisen Kaisha for San Francisco, and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha for this port and Tacoma, warrants the transfer of larger vessels from the European route to this run. When the Yokohama berthed here on her inbound trip it was reported that the Aki Maru would be released as soon as the Katori Maru, the new ten-thousand tonner, went into service to Europe, so that this four-master will be seen in local ports some time in the summer or early fall.

Competition in business is becoming more keen with the development of the ports on this side of the Pacific, and with the valuable cargoes of silk and Oriental goods which are consigned to importers on this side, the development of this trade is certain to be a growing factor in the commercial relations of the Far East and the North Pacific coast.

IMBRICARIA ON WAY FROM HONOLULU HERE

Trawler for B. C. Fisheries Company Comes From Durban, South Africa

The next trawler for the British Columbia Fisheries Company, the Imbricaria is expected to arrive early in the present month, probably next week. It will not, however, come by the long trip which tried out the three trawlers of the Canadian Fisheries Company, the George E. Foster, Andrew Kelly and James Carruthers, which arrived early in the present year. The Imbricaria, which will join the Canada and Triumph in the north, comes by way of South Africa, where experimental fishing was carried on off the south-east coast.

This did not prove a success, however, and the authorities in England decided to send her on to the scene of their operations in British Columbia. The local representative of the company is informed that the vessel got away from Honolulu in good time, and should be well on her way here. As Sir George Doughty stated, when he was out here last fall, the fleet will be increased as business opens.

While as yet no definite information is to hand as to what will be done with the vessel when she arrives, it is probable that the example of her predecessors will be followed, and that dories will be fitted when the overhaul is made after her long trip. They are found to be more serviceable under the conditions in which fishing is carried on in the northern waters.

GAME WARDEN'S CRUISER WILL BE BUILT SOON

Tenders are now under consideration for a game warden's sea-going power cruiser, to assist the provincial game wardens in their duties around the islands.

The vessel is being built from the designs of Morris, Bulkeley and Halliday, naval architects, and will be 45 feet long, 10 feet beam, 6 feet 6 inches deep, and will carry a 35 horse power engine. It will be capable of making 9½ miles an hour.

The same designers are responsible for the 55 foot, 80 horse power tugboat just built at the Hinton Electric Company's yard for the Portland Cement and Construction Company, which will be used for towing material from the Bamerton plant on Saanich Inlet. This is a useful addition to the smaller craft, and having considerable speed capacity, will be of great assistance to the company.

TALLAC CALLS TO PICK UP PILOT

Vancouver, June 3.—The American steam schooner Tallac arrived in English Bay last evening, and anchored while the captain entered the ship, and obtained a pilot. Late last night the Tallac proceeded to Green Point Rapids, Cardero Channel, where she will remain for two days loading poles. She will complete the cargo at New Westminster, and steam thence to San Francisco.

TO SALVAGE IKALIS ON ROCKS IN JAPAN

Expense Will Be Large Item; Ikala Will Go to England

Vancouver, June 3.—The Union Steamship Company, of Vancouver, which is now under the same head as the Gulf Transport Line, has received details of the damage sustained by the steamer Ikalis, which went ashore at Muroran, Japan, a few weeks ago. The forepart of the steamer is on the rocks. Six feet of the stem is hard on the rocks. No. 1 hold and No. 2 hold are on flat rocks. Five plates are bent, rivets are broken and one seam is open. From this aft there is 46 feet of water. The forepeak and Nos. 1 and 2 holds are flooded as the tide ebbs and flows, and there is a four-foot rise in the hull. The salvage operation constitutes a payment of $150,000. The steamer is delivered at Hakodate docks. "No cure, no pay" is the system agreed upon. Two projecting rocks have been cleared away, and there is hope that the ship will be floated.

The Ikala, now in the stream, is another Gulf Transport Line, and is here awaiting definite instructions to proceed to England to get new boilers installed.

Inaugurating a new line to Skagway, the steamer Leelanaw arrived early this afternoon from the Sound and coasted at the G. T. P. wharf. The Leelanaw is to engage in the freight-carrying trade to Skagway.

The Russian sailing ship Endymion, which arrived on Sunday from Callao to load lumber at Hastings mill, will follow the example of the British barque Rowena and drydock on Moodyville beach. The windjammer is at present discharging ballast in the stream, and when this is out she will be towed to the mud flats at Moodyville to be cleaned and scraped.

The halibut steamers reaching here lately complain of the scarcity of halibut, despite the fine weather. The Flamingo, which arrived this afternoon, only brought 75,000 pounds, although the Roman, which arrived at New Westminster, brought 150,000 pounds. The C. P. R. steamer Princess Mary, which arrived at 12:30 p.m. to-day from the north, brought 50,000 pounds of halibut taken by the schooner Borealis, landed at Prince Rupert and shipped to the New England Fish Company here.

C. Gardner Johnson & Co., agents here for the Hamburg-American line, received word to-day that the Briggavia, one of the vessels coming here, grounded on May 15 on the Nolteplat, while on her way from Hamburg to Antwerp to complete cargo for Vancouver. She was floated the same day without trouble.

The British ship Segura, which was here a year or two ago with cement for Winch & Co., has had a rough experience at Newcastle, Arrol, according to news received here to-day in a letter from the captain. During a gale the Segura broke adrift, and although she was secured the force of the gale was such as to cause her to break away the second time owing to the bits carrying away. Eventually both anchors were let go.

The City of Puebla, of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, will berth here at 8 o'clock to-morrow for San Francisco.

MINNESOTA IS TO COME HERE IN FALL

Superintendent Will Come to Arrange Dockage for Huge Steamer

Although nothing definite has yet been announced, the Minnesota, the monster Great Northern railway steamer and the Leviathan of the Pacific, may be looked for to dock here some time this fall. W. R. Dale, the local agent, is advised that the managing superintendent, C. E. Lacey, is coming to the city to arrange about dockage. She could easily berth here in-bound, as Mr. Dale points out, but it would apparently be only possible to float her in at high tide when loaded down for the Orient. The next outbound sailing is set for July 10, and so there is no prospect of the change being made effective by then, but there will be another trip commenced on September 29, by which time the arrangements for sharing the business here should be completed.

The Minnesota is of 28,000 tons' capacity, and is 630 feet long, 73 1-2 feet beam. She is of 10,715 tons' gross register, so that provision has to be made of a special character for her berth.

Effective for the July sailing the following rates, which are a considerable reduction on those at present fixed, will be charged for saloon passengers on the Minnesota; Yokohama, $150 (cut of 25 per cent); Kobe, $157.50; Nagasaki, $171; Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila, $175, and for the six months' rate, round trip, from $225 to Yokohama to $262.50 for south China and the Philippines. The Minnesota is evidently, therefore, going to bid for the trade of Pacific on the Canadian as well as the American side.

MAY RACE DURING NEW ZEALAND'S VISIT

In connection with the visit of the New Zealand here next month, when she will lie up to a buoy in Esquimaux harbor, it is being urged that the Victoria Royal Yacht Club put on a programme similar to the one recently held by the Royal New Zealand Yacht Club. The club officials, whose headquarters are in Auckland, organized a yacht race, in which the boats were sailed by the naval officers of the gift Dreadnought, when the big war vessel was in Auckland. Several of the officers competed, and the race was won by Boatswain Head, Commander E. H. Grace being second.

In the felicitations which were exchanged subsequent to the race Commander Grace described yachting as one of the best trainings for men, for it developed in them ready resource and indomitable courage.

WORK TO COMMENCE WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Cost of Sewering Increased
Areas in Saanich and Esquimalt About $325,000

Providing a tentative agreement can be reached between Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich on the basis of Engineer Rust's report to the city council last night as to the cost of draining the increased outside area into the northwest sewer, work can be commenced in two weeks, according to the engineer. Aldermen Humber and Porter, the engineer and the solicitor were appointed a committee to bring the other two municipalities into a tentative agreement that they will support the scheme described by Engineer Rust after a conference with the engineers of Saanich and Esquimalt.

That the increased area required to be sewered would increase the cost by over $30,000 was the engineer's announcement. Figuring on the basis of 775 acres in Saanich with a population of 11,000 their sewer would cost $42,000, while in Esquimalt 1,000 acres with a population of 20,000 would cost $43,000. This would make the total cost $325,000.

Mr. Rust proposed that the outside municipalities pay this extra cost, and an annual rental for the use of the city's mains. He further suggested that the city could to advantage drain 90 acres into the Esquimalt surface drain.

It was decided to get a tentative agreement endorsing this scheme, and then to go ahead with the work as it would cost the municipalities at least $200,000 by any other plan, and it was felt to be most unlikely that the ratepayers would back down on a proposition of this kind.

Some discussion as to the stage at which R. H. Thomson should view the plans was entered into, and it was generally conceded that the finished plans were what should be submitted to him.

LA BELLE MARIE PLEASES

Play Well Presented at Princess Proves Attractive Offering.

"La Belle Marie" as presented by the Williams Players at the Princess Theatre last evening proved a pleasing offering. The play is a very pretty creation and each of the characters included in the case has an attraction. That the piece has an appeal was indicated last evening by the cordial reception accorded it by the audience.

Of the various parts Miss Page has played none has fitted her more completely than the double role of Jean Ingelide and La Belle Marie. She had an opportunity to display many of woman's emotions, which she did with skill. Her gowns were attractive, particularly the brilliant red one and the blue green one worn in the third act.

Earl Leighton, as played by Mr. Alden, was an effective interpretation. The part of a villain fell to Mr. Belasco and his work was convincing to a degree. The ultra up-to-date society girl, portrayed by Miss Merriott, was an attractive piece of acting, able assistance being rendered by Mr. McDonald. The cast was well placed throughout.

A great deal of the success of the play on its first evening was due to the scenic effects utilized. The scenes were specially painted for the production, those in the fourth act being notably effective.

WAS LOWER HERE.

Mainland Temperatures Yesterday
Higher Than at Victoria.—Effect on Fraser River.

Owing to the continued hot weather there has been some danger of flooding in the lower Fraser valley, and any decided heat wave has been somewhat dreaded, particularly at this time of year, as on Saturday and Sunday next, June 7 and 8, the highest tide of the year will take place, and will hold back the waters of the Fraser. The general tendency of the thermometer in the interior of the province and in the neighborhood of the Coast range not to rise noticeably, therefore, is welcomed particularly at this time.

Yesterday's temperature in Victoria rose, at its highest, to 78 degrees. In Kamloops 88 degrees were registered, while in some of the interior parts of Washington state 90 degrees were recorded. Seattle and Portland yesterday reported several degrees more heat than Victoria, the former experiencing 82 degrees and the latter 85.

PORTLAND PIPPINS POUND BALL

BES ALSO BUNCH THE ERRORS

Weird Display at the Ball Park in Which Visitors Wallop Local Club; Score 13 to 3

Clouting a brace of Victoria twirlers to all corners of the lot, and it might also be mentioned, out of the lot, a couple of times, Nick Williams' Pippins continued their upward climb at the expense of the Bees yesterday afternoon at the ball yard. Perfect weather greeted the home-coming athletes and the fans looked for greater things than they were privileged to gaze upon. The invaders had our Angora from the start, and after driving George Hardin from the mound with a series of well directed clouts, they again gathered to the attack in the sixth, and only the great lead that they had obtained, saved Slim Smith from being chased to the shower.

Five Home Runs.
It was a grand day for the kids who chase the cork centres when they top the fence, no less than five homers being registered. Victoria grabbed off the two of these four-base drives while the Pippins rolled up the other three. It was distinctly a hitting affair, and while the Bees also took a hand in the proceedings, touching up Easterly for fine safe and sound bingles, the Portland batsmen were there with the heavy slugging and banged out fourteen hits, while four nice juicy errors at times when clean fielding meant everything, added to the run-getting. Johnny Rawlings had a bad day, booting a couple of chances, while Lamb and Hardin were the other offenders. These misplays counted for no less than nine of the visitors' runs, but Portland unpacked their wallop at the right time, and were not to be denied the victory.

Seven in One Inning.
Hardin waded through the first inning like a Walter Johnson, but in the second frame he lost control, and while he worried through until the fourth, he was handing out charities with the generosity of the gent who makes his annual appearance at Xmas. Slim Smith went along swimmingly until the fifth, when Melchior lifted the cork centre over the right field fence. Smithy pasted one to the left field boards for a home run in the Bees' half, but the Pippins opened up their real attack in the sixth when three singles in a row, an error, two more singles and a home run, sent seven runs flying across the rubber. That settled matters, but one more was checked up in the eighth on Spears' single and Hellman's double.

Harry Meek Fined.
Easterly pitched a nice game, striking out six, while he did not pass a batter. Neither Hardin nor Smith had much more than their gloves, while their support was very strong on the ivory stuff. Easy outs went for hits, while the "boots" came at critical periods. Umpire Edginger missed quite a few at the plate, and he had to tag a few spot upon huge Harry Meek when the latter was called out on strikes. Meek had made three hits previously, and objected strenuously at being set down on strikes. Melchior was the batting hero of the contest, getting three out of four, including a home run and a

ENGLISH CRICKET.

London, June 3.—The two county cricket matches started May 30 were brought to an end yesterday, Lancashire administering a severe defeat to Derbyshire, whom they beat by eight wickets.

The following are lunch scores of the three games started yesterday: Hampshire started the batting against Surrey at the oval with a good score of 193, only three wickets being down. Mead and Newman made a good stand. Kent visited Bradford, where they are playing Yorkshire. Kent went to bat first and annexed 230 runs for eight wickets. Woolley and Hubble made 81 and 44 respectively, the latter being not out.

Warwickshire are playing Northamptonshire at Birmingham. Warwick, on going to bat first, scored 236 for five wickets.

CRICKET PRACTICE.

The Sons of St. George will have a practice match Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. All members and others interested in cricket please meet at Burns monument, Beacon Hill park. A good turn-out is expected.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Twirlers Again the Weakness.
Even though the fielders did hand the Pippins nine runs in yesterday's affair between the Bees and Pippins, it is becoming more evident every day that the locals will have to strengthen their hurling staff if they are to advance in the league. Of course the club is crippled by the absence of Charlie Brooks from first base and Bert Delmas at second. That breaks up the infield, and also takes Swain from the outfield, but at that the pitchers have not shown the class of the other clubs in the league. Kautleher is the only one who can be relied upon to go out and win a game every week, and that pace will never do. A couple of winning right-handed twirlers would make an entirely different club out of the Bees, but good slab artists are scarce as hens' teeth, and while the club management is trying to strengthen up right now, the fans will have to be patient for a few days.

Why Will Some Fans Quit Early in the Game.
It is enough for a ball player to try for everything that comes his way and take a chance on booting one every now and then, without the home fans bawling him out when he falls down. Yesterday Johnny Rawlings, the acknowledged leader of the Northwestern short fielders, came in for an unmerciful roasting at the hands of a couple of half-hearted supporters of the home club. The little shortstop was also bawled out when he advanced to bat and had a very enjoyable session listening to the comments of a couple of "four-bit" baseball judges. If the game had been close it would have been enough for the fans to roar, but the Bees did not increase their total and four runs would have beaten the locals, without the seven that resulted from Rawlings' misplay. Baseball fans will have their say, but there is a limit to the comment of every fan, more especially when it comes to roasting a home player. Certainly such support, if it can be called support, will not help Victoria to win any pennants this year.

Con Jones Looks for a Cup Victory This Year.
Victorians will get their first glimpse of professional lacrosse on June 28, when the Vancouver and Westminster teams will clash at Oak Bay in the first of three games that are to be played in the Capital this season. To date, both clubs have won a game, winning their home fixtures by wide margins. The cup holders won easily on Victoria Day, while last Saturday the Vancouver club went out and doubled the score on the Royals. The league will be better balanced when the Victoria club secures a team and a three-club league is the ultimate solution of coast lacrosse. Both teams have made a number of changes since last year, but the standard of lacrosse is there and the best lacrosse in the world will be given Victorians when the pros perform the end of this month.

LATEST ON DERBY.

London, June 3.—The only American-owned horse remaining in tomorrow's Derby is Knight's Key, which Richard Croker purchased from F. H. Wise, and his chances are considered poor even among the ordinary lot running for the blue ribbon of the English turf. It now looks as if there would be eighteen starters, headed by King George's Anmer, which stands little chance of winning.

The betting to-day was as follows: Craganour, 5 to 2 against; Shogun, 9 to 2 against; Louvre, 7 to 1 against; Nimbus, 9 to 1 against; Day Comet, 100 to 7 against; True and Great Sport, 100 to 6 against.

The Epsom racecourse and the stands have been under police supervision for some days to prevent outrages by the militant suffragettes.

All Tacoma pitchers looked alike to Vancouver. They started on Kaufman, who lasted seven innings, batted Boice out of the box in one-third of an inning and finished up on McGinnity.

Phoenix Beer, $1.50 per doz. qts.

SHOOT KING'S PRIZE THROUGHOUT EMPIRE

London, June 3.—It is reported that the army council has made important proposals to the National Rifle Association in regard to future competitions at Bisley, suggestions which if they become effective, will revolutionize the rifle shooting and practice throughout the British Empire, with the object of bringing them more closely into line with actual war conditions.

The army council among other things proposes that the King's prize shall be competed for in the year 1934 and thereafter, wherever throughout the British Dominions practice shooting is at present carried on to qualify for the great Bisley annual event. That in fact it shall be shot for in each locality on a standard test being open to the army, navy, territorials, and in fact to all members of His Majesty's services. Also that the contest shall be carried on throughout the Empire more or less simultaneously, without recourse to Bisley itself as at present. Three conferences on the subject have been held between the army council and the council of the National Rifle Association. The latter being an unofficial body which controls the Bisley meeting. It is stated that the army council have issued what is practically an ultimatum on the subject.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

Smith was little improvement on Hardin.

Portland possess a shifty bunch of ball players.

Mike Lynch failed to get a hit in four times at bat.

It was a grand day for baseball, but the Bees found it too hot.

Nick Williams has his club fighting every inch of the way.

Danny Shea has fallen off in his batting and is not meeting the ball as he did at the start of the season.

There are but three veterans on the Portland club, Williams having the youngest team in the league and the fastest.

Bees had twenty-one infield chances and tossed four of these away. Meek had seventeen put-outs at first.

Speas played nice ball and shaper up as a good healthy stickler. He is only a youngster at that.

Joe North pulled a bone in announcing the scores of the other games at Vancouver and Seattle, getting the results twisted.

Felts will have to improve his sticking if he is to hold a job. He has been getting very few safeties in the last fortnight.

What's the use of getting runs if your twirlers fail to hold the other fellows. Is the question that is worrying Mike Lynch these days and he is in the same box as the fans who are attempting to discover the weakness of the Bees.

WHO'S WHO IN SPORT.

Just a quarter of a century ago to-day, June 3, 1895, the San Francisco Examiner published some verses entitled "Casey at the Bat." The identity of the author was indicated only by the initials "E. L. T." Dozens of men have since claimed to be the true and rightful creator of the immortal epic of baseball, and scattered over the United States there are as many as many authors of "Casey" as drummer boys of Shiloh. According to the records of the Examiner, however, the classic poem was submitted to that newspaper by Ernest L. Thayer, of Worcester, Mass., and doubtless his name will go down in the corridors of time as the bona fide parent of the mighty "Casey." Other claimants have failed to produce any publication containing "Casey" of an earlier date than the Examiner.

DERBY BETTING.

London, June 3.—Following is the latest betting on the Derby: Craganour, 5 to 2; Shogun, 9 to 2; Louvre, 7 to 1; Nimbus, 100 to 12; Day Comet and True, 100 to 7; Great Sport, 100 to 6; Radiant and Bachelor's Wedding, 25 to 1.

The opening of the Epsom meeting to-day promises to be a brilliant success. At present, considerable doubt prevails as to the Derby field but an approximately correct list of probable starters will be available to-morrow.

TEAMS FOR DAVIS CUP.

London, June 3.—Following are the teams which will represent Canada and South Africa in the preliminary round of the international tournament for the Davis Cup to be played at Queen's Club, West Kensington, June 12, 13 and 14:

Canada—Powell, Schwengers, Mayes, and Captain Foulkes.
South Africa—Gauntlett, R. Lesuer, Leech and Girdleston.

WARDS AND CUBS.

This evening at the North Ward park the Cubs meet the Wards in a junior league game. As both teams have won a game apiece an interesting game is anticipated, as the winning team will be off to a lead in the junior league. The following players are requested to be on hand for the Wards: Balcom, Lane, Cummins, Rivercombe, Hall, Ledingham, Wall, Dinsdale, and Milne.

The only difference between facing Walter Johnson and facing a cannon is that the swift Swede doesn't "boom" when he lets the ball go.

WRESTLERS WILL MEET NEXT WEEK

Buzukos and Kelly Grapple for Lightweight Title

Members of the Victoria Athletic Club are to be given a treat when Peter Buzukos, champion of the lightweight championship of the world, will meet Charlie Kelly, another clever lightweight mat artist at the Victoria Athletic club on June 10. Physical instructor Joe Raymond, of the Broad street club, states that he is also arranging for a couple of really good preliminaries and he looks for the entertainment to be a real headliner in the way of grappling matches.

Not only is Buzukos willing to wrestle for a side bet, but the swathy arm-lock artist says that he will win from Kelly in two straight falls. The Celt is also confident and the fans may look for a tussle between miniature giants when the pair meet. A local referee will handle the bout and admission will be for members only. It might also be stated that the club secretary is now preparing to handle a few more applications. The gymnasium is in splendid condition and boxing instruction is one of the big items on the programme every day.

The next boxing tourney will be held on June 20, Joe Swain and Cyclone Scott being billed as the features of an exceptionally strong card that Manager Raymond is lining up.

HILL'S SOUTHPAW A MYSTERY TO EAST END

The second game of the city intermediate league, played last night at the North Ward park between Beacon Hill and the East Ends, resulted in a win for the former by the score of 10-2. The game was more even than the score indicates.

Totally a southpaw who was on the mound for the Hills did not allow a safe hit, and had the opposing club shut out until the final inning when errors permitted two runners to cross the plate. Clarks pitched good ball for the East Ends but was erratic at times.

LEAGUE STANDING.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Beacon Hill	1	0	1.000
East Ends	0	1	.000

The Hospitals and the Hills met recently, the game resulting in a draw.

BENNY ERB HERE.

America's greatest Rugby full-back, Benny Erb, is visiting the Capital, after passing with highest honors at Stanford university. He will remain the guest of Bob Green until his departure for Alaska, where Erb will devote his attention to mining. Erb represented Stanford in the seasons of 1908, 1910, 1911 and 1912, and was a member of the All-American team that toured Australia in 1910. In 1908 he was picked as half-back on the All-American team and was again selected for the same position in 1910. In 1911 he was reserve full-back to Floyd Brown, and last year again took the honors, playing the position in the international game America vs. Australia.

HEAVY BETTING ON POLO.

New York, June 3.—Devereaux Milburn, back of the American polo team, which is practicing for the defence of the international polo championship, has practically recovered from injuries received Saturday.

It is the report in polo circles to-day that a coterie of London stock exchange members has put up $10,000 as a wager to be laid against $7,500 on the New York stock exchange, the Englishmen, of course, picking their team as favor.

SCULLERS FOR HENLEY.

London, June 3.—Following are the foreign and colonial entries for this year's Henley regatta, which opens next Friday: Grand Challenge Argonaut, Tor into Paris Rowing Club; Stewards' Cup, Argonaut, Berlin-Mayence; Diamond Sculls—Butler, Toronto; McVitty, Tasmania; Hoffmann, Munich; Kusch, St

ESQUIMALT'S SHARE IS NOT YET FIXED

Municipal Council is to Be Advised of Division of Sewerage Cost

After City Engineer Rust has presented his report to the city council upon the northwest trunk sewerage, showing the amounts to be distributed over the municipalities, the Esquimalt municipal council will be asked to approve the terms.

This information was conveyed to the meeting of the district council last evening, after a communication from C. H. Topp, the municipal engineer, had been heard. Mr. Topp indicated that a settlement would be proposed acceptable to all parties at an early date. The total sum to be asked from Esquimalt was not mentioned.

Local Improvements.

In accordance with the provision of the act passed last session, the council read for the first and second times a local improvement by-law, which covers the procedure to be adopted in cases when local improvement works are initiated in the municipality.

The council was asked to assist the Victoria Brass & Iron Works in securing telephone connection, it being pointed out that months elapsed between the time applications were placed on file and the service installed for customers.

Councillors pointed to similar delays, and it was resolved that the British Columbia Telephone Company should be approached on the matter. It was said there were cases where applications had been made months ago, without success, and that the business interests of the municipality were handicapped thereby.

Class of Lights.

The British Columbia Electric Company, through the manager of the light and power department, S. J. Halls, stated that the best class of lamp to install would be a series of 94.4 watt lamps, which would be satisfactory. Mr. Halls declared that after the first installation there could be added 102 more lamps to the 120 specified for delivery under the contract. The council had asked for 100 watt lamps, which apparently are not made, and the next size above is a 118 watt lamp.

The suggestion of Mr. Halls was approved.

Letters for publication in Daily Times must be received at the Times office not later than the day before the day of publication. When received later they will be held over until the following day.

While unobjectionable anonymous communications will be published, the name and address of the writer of such letters must be given to the editor.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor: A trifling clerical error appears in my letter published this evening in the Times, which you will see upon referring to my M. S. The quotation from Shakespeare should read: "Fallen into the sea and yellow beef," which would be more applicable in my case.

"PROGRESS."

To the Editor:—In the course of a sermon delivered by Father O'Boyle which you print in yesterday's Times, the reverend Father says that the harsh judgment accorded to morally weak women is because the purity of the Virgin Mary has been set as the standard for all womanhood. On the same principle, why then has not Christ been set as a standard for men? Was he not equally pure?

Father O'Boyle asserts that woman's vocation is the same as it was 2,000 years ago. According to him, then, there is no such thing as "progress" for women. "Progress" may conquer the air, perfect discolored instruments of war, invent new diseases, may even exempt hens from hatching their own eggs; women alone must not change the lords of creation have so willed it.

Several years ago, when women took to cycling, how horrified were some people at the unfemininity of it, and an elderly lady has told me that in her girlhood it was considered unladylike for a woman to play the violin.

The countries where women have the vote have not yet gone to the demnation how-wow.

GLADYS SHRAPNEL.

NOT REPRESENTATIVE CRICKETERS.

To the Editor:—I trust you will pardon me for taking exception to your report of last Saturday's cricket match in your edition of 31st ulto. that the cricket team pitted against the Australians on that day was a representative British Columbian team.

I do not know whether any of the interior cricketers were invited to participate in the match, but I do know that there are a number of cricketers in the Okanagan, Boundary and East and West Kootenay districts who would have been a source of strength to the coast combination, and that Saturday's match, without the inclusion of one or more of the interior players, was by no means representative of B. C.

THEIR RECORDS.

To the Editor:—On the return of Messrs. Barnard and Green from Ottawa the Colonist was taken with a very violent spasm of admiration, with the result that a long-suffering public had to submit to another dose of nauseating and disgusting adulation. The Week had a similar attack, but of a milder form. Both these papers speak of the past record made by the two members, and, as there are many new residents in the city, it may be of use, to make a brief review of this much admired past.

It is true that Mr. Barnard was once mayor of Victoria. During his regime public gambling houses and brothels were permitted and we had what is called a "wide-open town." As a result many young men were ruined, and misery and disgrace was the portion of more than one household. Is Mr. Barnard proud of this? It is also true that he has twice been elected as member of parliament, once by a very narrow majority and the second time by about 600 votes. His first election was accomplished by the use of a forged telegram. Are Mr. Barnard and the Colonist proud of this? His second election was partly due to a hypocritical use of the flag, but was mainly caused by the aid of the most corrupt and unscrupulous political machine which has ever existed in Canada. Is this a matter for congratulation?

As for Mr. Green, his record in provincial politics is not forgotten, and all the frantic efforts of a hireling press will not blot it from our recollection. Whether the Colonist and the Week are justified in their crawling attitude depends entirely upon the point of view. Some will say that, being hirelings, they must make some effort to earn their pay, while others will be old-fashioned enough to feel that a paper should hold its honor and dignity above all other considerations. But in any case the public are not so easily fooled, and all these effusions will never turn "lightweight" into "heavyweights." While the people may read these papers, it is only for the news and public opinion is not influenced by the opinions expressed in the editorial columns, for to carry weight a paper must be something more than a jumping-jack which moves only when the strings are pulled.

THE ORIENTAL QUESTION.

To the Editor:—The time has arrived when something should be done to grapple with this Asiatic question, as it affects every man, woman and child on the Pacific Coast. It seems a shame to think in a rich province like this, where we boast of our great resources, that we have to rely on money from England. But

A Demonstration Interesting to Women Is Now Going On In Our Store on the Subject of Pond's Tampons

Pond's Tampons constitute a form of treatment which has been universally employed and endorsed by leading physicians. For over six years the medical profession has demonstrated the power of this simple common-sense form of treatment to relieve and, in many cases completely cure, those distressing headaches, backaches and general nervous breakdowns peculiar to women.

The time has come when the originators of POND'S TAMPONS feel absolutely justified in their decision to place this wonderful system within the reach of every wife, mother and daughter. They believe that when modest women realize how much of unnecessary suffering can be prevented, how many cases of terror-inspiring surgical operations can be avoided, and how many women can be restored and kept in a glorious, vibrant, beauty-bringing condition of health by this simple, inexpensive, painless home treatment, that a supply of Pond's Tampons will be kept in every home in the land.

Do not fail to visit this demonstration. It lasts all this week. If you cannot visit us during the demonstration, ask some one in our Drug Department to give you a booklet of interesting information about Pond's Tampons.

Demonstration on first floor, near elevator.

DAVID SPENCER, LTD.

Things will not improve much while the Oriental is simply draining this city and Coast cities of large amounts of money each month. We have our Board of Trade appealing for new industries. Why, Mr. Editor, you know, as thousands know, that nearly all our industries here are being run by Oriental labor. One firm in this city employs over 300 Chinese and Hindians, saying nothing of dozens of other large firms employing the vast majority of Orientals. The lumber trade, the brick making industry, the firewood, servants, the laundry, the fishing and cannery, the fruit and vegetable businesses, are run almost entirely by Orientals, saying nothing of the dairy, ladies' and gents' tailoring and other trades too numerous to mention here. If something is not done soon the whole of our trade on the Pacific Coast will be in their hands. Money is tight, I know, but it is the Oriental who is sucking the life blood from the white race, as it were, from California to Prince Rupert. The Oriental will not have us in his country. Why should we have them here? One of our leading lumber merchants told me he could prove the Chinese send $50,000 from this city to China every month, saying nothing of what the Japs and Hindians send. All builders in this and other cities should combine, and other trades, and refuse to buy lumber, etc., from firms employing this yellow peril.

The late Liberal government did put a check on the number of Japs arriving here. Speaking at the Victoria theatre at a Navy League meeting Sir Richard McBride said: "It is my belief that Mr. Borden will be found to realize the responsibility of Canada as a nation in the Empire, but there is a duty outside the duty of the government, and that is one that can be fulfilled by the people of British Columbia. Here on this Coast there are sawmills and canneries, fishery undertakings, and other industries, in which the majority of the help employed is composed of Orientals. If every employer of labor during the next few years will replace these Orientals with white working-men, men of the British race, then these industries will form recruiting grounds from which the new Canadian navy can be manned. With white workers employed these can be depended upon to fight for their country, whereas no such reliance can be placed upon Orientals. I am sorry to have to acknowledge that, practically the entire fisheries of British Columbia are now in the hands of men who do not belong to the country and who owe no allegiance to the Union Jack, and it is to our fishing population that we have to look when we have a full fledged navy and want it manned." Sir Richard, knowing as he does, this serious problem, turns deliberately round and advocates Mr. Borden's navy policy, sending $5,000,000 of the ratepayers' money, which England can easily do without. I say Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy is right. Millions should be spent on this Coast at once to guard against this yellow peril.

I, like hundreds more, stood up and cheered Mr. Barnard in A. O. U. W. hall when he read out that forged telegram. Never again. I would say nothing had he tried to retrieve his character. But no, he has not raised his voice on this burning subject of an all-white Canada. The government here were able to remove the Songhees tribe, namely, the native sons, and some of their friends were highly paid for the job, too. But they seem scared to speak against this yellow curse. This Oriental invasion is far more serious than the German bogey. I appeal to all loyal British subjects to rise in a body now before it is too late and form a strong Asiatic Exclusion League and hold mass meetings and see what we can do to fight this great question. I would predict if the Liberal party will take this question up in conjunction with Sir Wilfrid's navy policy they will be returned in the next election with an overwhelming majority. How can this province thrive and go ahead when they are simply strangling our industries? Australia, New Zealand, British Isles and South Africa will not have them. Why should we? SMITH.

NAZIMOVA SCORES A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Great Actress Seen in Indifferent Play Carried Solely by Her Genius

For the second time Madame Alla Nazimova has visited Victoria, and renewed her triumph of two and a half years ago. In "Bella Donna," the vehicle of her art in which she was seen at the Victoria theatre last evening, she has not so agreeable a role as when she was Nora, in "A Doll's House," but the same splendid artistry and the same marvellous mastery of technique marked the one as it did the other. And when the final curtain fell on the defeat of the scheming, sinister woman the thrill of pity for her forced from an audience which had followed breathlessly the unfolding of the last act was a tribute to the great Russian actress who has made this land her home.

"Bella Donna" is a somewhat showy, rather superficial play—ugly to the extent that it is a poison-play—placed largely in a picturesque Egyptian setting. It is a dramatic, sensational, and suffers from the usual faults and shortcomings of the attempt to make over a successful work of fiction into an equally successful play. The pathway of theatrical history is strewn with the wrecks of such attempts, and it sometimes happens that part of the reputation of the star who sought to win the plaudits of pit and gallery is left behind as well. On the other hand, once in a while some great artists add to their laurels by so imposing their own personalities upon the work of the dramatists as to make it an artistic and a box office success. There are probably but two women who could do this and save "Bella Donna" from being a discredited melodrama. Mrs. Patrick Campbell, one can well believe, accomplished it in the United Kingdom; Madame Alla Nazimova, on this continent, is still waiting the play and adding to her own fame.

The atmosphere of Egypt that is given by a skillful stage management is all that remains of that feature of Robert Hichens' story. As those who have read it know, his descriptions of the Nile and the desert are most vivid. These are entirely lost in James Bernard Fagan's dramatization, though the loss would not have been inevitable, and there is a paucity of dialogue. There is lacking, too, the psychological development of the plot, and all we have is a mere thread of the story. One is to be interested rather in what the people do than in what they are, but the public demands more than that in theatre fare now. Audiences would like, for instance, to have known more of the nature of the female poisoner than is got from Fagan. It is not altogether because her husband, a poorly-drawn figure, is a bore to her, that she drops sugar of lead into his coffee. It is because she is bidden to do so by Mahmoud Baroudi, the Egyptian whom she loves. The subjugation of white women by dusky lords has been established as a literary motif since Desdemona, but in this latest instance the theme is treated most crudely; there is the bond of flesh and nothing else. Mahmoud is sketchily lined in and only the admirable acting of Robert Whitworth makes his coldness and selfishness real.

The first two acts of the play are simply preparatory, a little long and much too slow. In the third the interest begins to grip and, the finale having been prepared for at the drop of the curtain, events hurry forward in the fourth to the dramatic climax of the woman in the case from the life of the husband she has betrayed and whom she would have poisoned had it not been for the determination of his friend, Dr. Mayer Isaacson. There is not a line in the play, by the way, to show why this character should have been a Jew instead of an Anglo-Saxon. The last act is the best written of the four, and its action moves swiftly along through the rejection of Mrs. Chestow by both husband and lover to her passing out into the night of the Egyptian desert.

Even in so poor a vehicle Madame Nazimova, as was characteristic, gave of her incomparable artistic best to the large house that had assembled to welcome her again to Victoria. From the first moment of her appearance till she passed into the dark alone she was the embodiment of the hateful, conscienceless woman who wrecks the lives of all those falling within her power. She is never Nazimova, and therein lies she the true artist, living and thinking only in the person of her role. There are few who equal her in the technique of her profession, who has the analytical mind of the Russian, and she is physically as well equipped for stage success as she is mentally. Her quiet methods are very much in evidence in "Bella Donna," as has been said already, the play is not worthy of her genius; this she alone all the more brightly on that account.

Not once does Nazimova, in this role as in her others, lower the high standard of her creation. Not once does she surrender to the temptation to indulge in any meretricious display or to over-accumulation of an emotion. Always there is in her work a naturalness apparently unstudied, and subtlety of gesture, pose, by-play and facial change. Always there is a resolute self-restraint and an absolute certainty of emotional understanding and expression that make her acting stand out in vivid and compelling contrast, a triumph at once original and supreme. At all times holding the closest attention of her auditors, Madame Nazimova was at her high best in the moments after she has fallen in with Mahmoud's scheme for poisoning her husband, in the tense struggle with Dr. Isaacson for his life and in the dumb despair of the last scene as she turns away from the door just sharply shut in her face to pass into the silence and mystery of the desert. Sitting in the lamplight when Mahmoud leaves her her features show all the pale finality of tragic resolve, and it needs no words to tell the audience that she accepts the gold case full of poison with the horrid implication that it involves.

Charles Bryant, as the doctor, shares the honors with the star, and with her aids in making of an indifferent play a success. His methods are as quiet, and as sure as are those of Nazimova. Mr. Bryant's appearance in that part is not his first in this play. He created the part of Mahmoud in London in the original production, when Mrs. Campbell was the Bella Donna and Sir George Alexander the doctor. In the role he now fills he has, of course, a scope that the other did not afford and one that fits him better than did that of the Egyptian lover. In the third act of his work, especially when playing opposite to Nazimova, kept attention focused upon him equally with her.

As the two servants, Hamza and Ibrahim, Claus Bogel and A. Romaine Callender were quite sufficiently secretive and repellent, Herbert Percy did all that anyone possibly could with the colorless husband and other parts were well filled by Edward Fielding and William Haasen.

The setting of the play and the stage management reached the highest standard, as was befitting a Frohman production, and an actress who knows as much about this part of the business as she does about the intellectual and technical side of it. The second act was placed in an Egyptian villa near Luxor, and the last in the gardens of the villa. The third act takes place on the deck of a dahabiah on the Nile. Despite the restrictions of the stage at the Victoria these settings were perfection in their conveyance to the East, and in their conveyance of the atmosphere which, in the novel, is painted in words. Not alone is there the physical surroundings, but all through the action of the scenes there is going on a low murmur, a sort of obligato of Orientalism, made up of the songs of boatmen, the cries of the street, the calling of donkey-boys and the musical summons of the muezzin to the faithful to prayer. The result of the whole is indescribably effective.

MINISTERS MEET.

Inscribes in Its Minutes a Resolution of Appreciation of Late Bishop Cridge

The Ministerial Association of Victoria held its last meeting before the summer holidays yesterday afternoon, when arrangements were completed for the holding of the International Theological Conference in Victoria from August 12 to 15. The following committee was appointed to prepare the programme: Reverend H. A. Carson, Thos. Green, T. W. Gladstone, Dr. Clay, Wm. Stevenson, Robt. Connell and Dr. Scott.

The members of the association remained standing while a resolution placing on record its high appreciation of the saintly character and loving fellowship of the late Right Reverend Bishop Cridge, was read prior to being placed on the minutes. Although of late years the infirmities of age prevented the venerable bishop from attending meetings, he had sent many loving messages to the association, and upon it a full recognition of his character as the official representative of the Church of Christ in Victoria.

SHOULD OFFICIALS ATTEND?

Council Discusses Absence of Officials From Meeting.

Council surprised itself last night by getting through all its business at 10 o'clock and the clerk then began to read off the items of unfinished business. Most of the items were dead issues, but the mayor and aldermen began to ask questions about their status and it was found that the engineer, who had been present at the opening of the meeting, had departed and the wanted information could not be obtained.

This caused Alderman Houston and the mayor to express the opinion that all civic officials should be required to attend each council meeting. Alderman Porter said he did not blame them for not wanting to do so as it must be pretty tiresome listening to all the talk about little or nothing. The mayor suggested that perhaps it might be amusing and the matter dropped.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Wherever there are Englishmen there will be celebrations to-day to mark the forty-eighth birthday of King George V. Throughout the British Empire, extending to every continent of the world, the day will be a holiday, King George being the only monarch whose natal day is thus observed in all the divisions of both hemispheres.

Correspondents of a number of American newspapers have recently announced that King George will visit Canada next year, and it has been suggested that he may extend his American trip to New York and San Francisco—and possibly to Boston, Chicago, Atlanta and Los Angeles. This information, which, as one correspondent remarks, "I send without reserve," and vouches for as coming from a "high source," has been received with considerable skepticism by the Dominion press. However, these stories have cropped up persistently for over a year, and where this is so much smoke, there must be some fire. Certainly the Canadians would welcome a visit from the sovereign, who, before his accession to the throne, was twice entertained by the people of the Dominion. In case the project should come to fruition, it is probable that a meeting between King George and President Wilson at Niagara Falls would be a memorable feature.

King George's power and privileges have often been discussed, but he has many of which the general public knows nothing, and to which he himself has probably given no attention. No subject may sue the King, yet the King may sue anybody. He may pardon any malefactor, for it is the "King's peace" that is broken by criminals. Legally the King is always present at every sitting of the law court and every session of parliament. Nominally he is the legal owner of the bottoms of all British rivers, the legal guardian of all insane persons and idiots, and he has the sole right to print the Holy Bible in England, and could, if he desired, prevent the printing of the Scriptures anywhere in the Empire.

King George's birthday dinner to-day will be prepared by a staff of twenty cooks under the supervision of M. Cedard, the chief chef, who receives a salary of $10,000 a year. "The dinner has pleased His Majesty," is the message that is always sent to M. Cedard.

Sam Bernard, who is one of the funniest of stage funny men, is just half a century old to-day. He was born in Birmingham, England, June 3, 1863, and originally bore the name of Samuel Barnett. Coming to America at the age of four, Sam and his brother Dick were early afflicted with the itch for stage fame, and began their theatrical career in their father's woodshed, to which the admission fee was payable in pins. At thirteen Sam and Dick graduated onto the stage of a little New York playhouse with the imposing name of the Grand Duke theatre, and to which the admission was five cents. The Bernard brothers were billed as knockabout comedians, and also doubled as singers and dancers. After a tour of the vaudeville houses of the east Sam returned to his native land and for a time played in London music halls. Back in America, he became the comedian of a burlesque company. Ten years ago Sam won success in the "legit" as joint star with Hattie Williams in "The Girl From Kay's." Later he has been the big scream in "All for the Ladies." Mr. Bernard was paid $150 a week at the Grand Duke. Recently he refused a vaudeville contract for ten weeks at $2,000 a week—and it wasn't stage money, either.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT By RUTH CAMERON

When is a woman not a woman?
When she goes shopping.

Please understand "woman" in the above question meaning what "lady" used to mean. That is, "a woman of refined and gentle manners." As everyone knows, the word "lady" has been so vulgarized that it is no longer in good repute, and unfortunately there does not seem to be any satisfactory substitute for it. Many people use "woman" as I have done, in the old sense of "lady."

But as a matter of fact, it means merely "an adult female person." This really leaves us with a gap in the language. I wish it might be filled in.

To return to the original theme. I often ask myself that question when I come back from a shopping tour.

They say many men have two different codes of morals; one for business and one for private life. Similarly many women seem to have two totally different sets of manners for shopping and for social life.

Surely you have noticed what absolutely discourteous things a nice looking woman will do when she is shopping, and especially at a bargain sale.

She will persistently interrupt a sales girl when she is waiting on some other woman.

She will take up five or ten minutes of a shop girl's time asking about this, that and the other, and then calmly walk away without a suggestion of a thank you.

She will walk three and four abreast through a crowded shop or down a narrow sidewalk, crowding others into the street or flattening them against the counters.

When something in which she is interested catches her eye, she will frequently stop so suddenly in the middle of a crowded aisle or sidewalk that the people behind her have to use the emergency brake to keep from tumbling over her. By the way, why wouldn't it be a good thing for pedestrians as well as automobilists to hold out their hands when they contemplate stopping suddenly?

She will even take hold of some especially coveted article while someone else is examining it.

She will often stoop to lies and trickery when it is a question of returning or exchanging some article, and will deliberately take unfair advantage of an establishment's courtesy and patience when it has a reputation for such qualities.

She will not take the trouble to seek out and buy from the girl who has previously waited on her when she comes back and makes a purchase after looking elsewhere. Indeed I have often noticed that the girls themselves are far more careful not to take a sale which does not belong to them than the customers are not to give it.

Can you think of any good reason why a woman should leave justice, courtesy and honesty at home when she goes shopping?

Myself, I can't.

DIGNITY By GEORGE MATHEY ADAMS

There is nothing finer in a man or woman than a fine Dignity—a Dignity that carries with it Respect, Nobleness of Mind and a certain positiveness of Strength without any suggestion of Snobbery.

True Dignity is Belief and not Illusion.

You can put Dignity to work in almost every phase of your personal Character and Life. There is a Dignity in Self-Control that makes it unnecessary to say a word. There is a Dignity that can be put into every word you speak that will make your words demand respect and recognition.

Keep your Dignity and your Head and no man can long hold out against you.

Put Dignity into your personal bearing.

ing. It will count for you everywhere you go. Dignity walks hand in hand with Respect and Respect frees and calms the mind.

For after all, Dignity is but the expression of your Mental Attitude toward things.

Incorporate Dignity into your Work and your daily Life. There is nothing more worthy of Dignity than Work. The humblest Job can be made Dignified by it. Everything worth while is worthy of Dignity.

An Example of Modern Sanitation.

Though the bay of Rio was discovered as far back as 1531 by the Portuguese sailor who took its mouth for a river, and was settled not long after, the settlement grew slowly, and it was not till 1762 that the seat of government was transferred here from Bahia, seven hundred miles further to the north. Now the population, estimated at a million, is in South America exceeded by that of Buenos Aires only, and in recent years much has been done to improve both the city and its port and wharves.

Still greater service has been rendered valley of the Parahyba river, and back up one of its tributary glens, to the top of the Coast range, whence we descended to the coast at Niteroy opposite Rio.

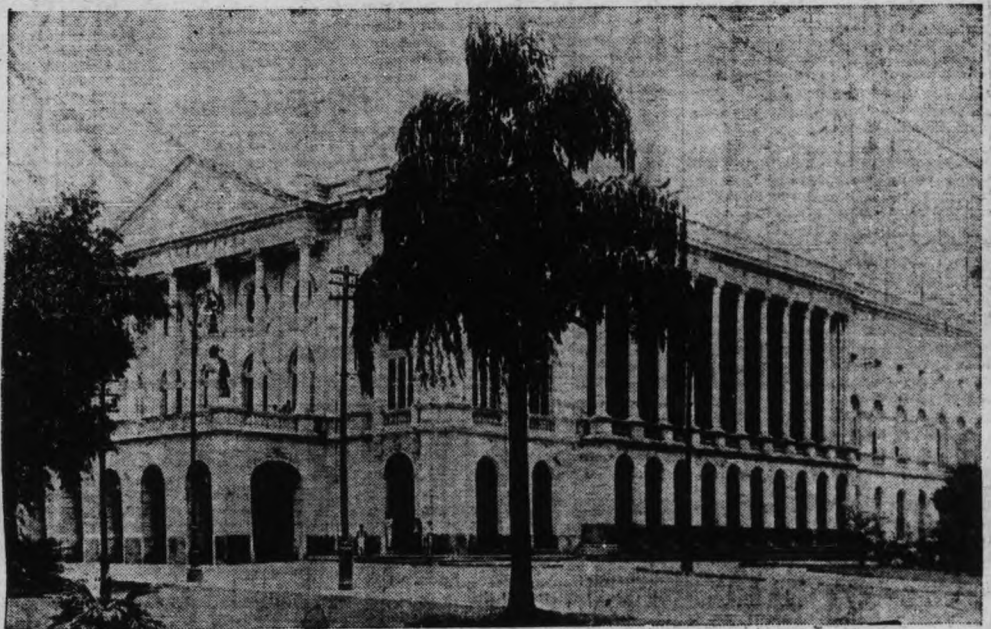

This Leopoldina railway descends a narrow valley, hemmed in by steep mountains whose projecting spurs and buttresses turn hither and thither the course of the foaming river. Right and left waterfalls leap over the cliffs to swell its waters. The slopes are mostly too steep for tillage, but here and there a cluster of houses clings to the slopes, and round them there are fruit trees and maize fields or little gardens. At last the ravine widens and we emerge into the broad valley, bordered by lower hills, of the Parahyba, one of the chief rivers of the Atlantic side of Brazil. Running down it, through a rich country, we stopped at a wayside station to take horse and ride up to a Fazenda (estate) whose hospitable owner had invited us to see his coffee plantations and live stock. The house set on a hill with a pretty garden below it and charming views all round, and inhabited by a large family of his children and grandchildren, gave a pleasant impression of Brazilian rural life. Here was simplicity with abundance, the beauty of groves and flowers, a bountiful Nature, laborers, nearly all tom of the valleys that are inhabited. The views were all the more beautiful because the precipices on the hillsides beneath which we passed were dripping with rivulets from last night's rain, and cascades leapt over a succession of rock ledges and hurried in foaming channels down the bottoms of the glens.

The Amazing Energy of Nature in Brazil.

It is in a region like this that one begins to realize the amazing energy of nature. Every inch of ground is covered with some living and growing thing. While the tall stems push upward to overtop their fellows and let their highest shoots put forth flowers under the sunlight, climbing plants slender as a vine shoot or stout as a liana embrace the trunk and mount along the branches and hang in swinging festoons from tree to tree. The fallen trunks are covered thick with ferns and mosses. Orchids and many another parasite root themselves in the living stem, and make it gay, to its ultimate undoing, with blossoms not its own.

Even the bare faces of gnarled rock, too steep for any soil to rest upon, support a plant with a thick whorl of succulent leaves that is somehow able to find sustenance from air and moisture.

A TYPICAL SOUTH AMERICAN THEATRE—THE THEATRE PAZ, AT PARA

ed by sanitary measures which have not only cleared away slums, but have practically extinguished yellow fever, and reduced the mortality from other tropical diseases. Rio is now a pleasant place of residence in winter, and the sea-breeze makes the climate agreeable in all but the hottest months.

Fifty years ago the then Emperor Don Pedro the Second, built himself a summer residence among the mountains which rise beyond the further end of the bay, and this presently became the "hot weather station" for the rich class of citizens and for the representatives of foreign countries. Now that Rio itself is more healthy, the need for an annual migration is less imperative, but the natural charm as well as the much cooler air of Petropolis have maintained it as a summer resort.

Petropolis is a pretty little spot, nestling under steep hills, its streets well planted and shady, its rows of shops which address themselves to the summer visitor reminding one of a Pyrenean or Rhenish bathing place. But the charm of its surroundings is beyond that of any place in Europe, for in no temperate climate are such landscapes with such wood and such colors to be found.

A Typical Brazilian Estate.

We learnt still more of the character of the country in an excursion over the Leopoldina railway, down into the negroes, who seemed contented and attached to their kindly master.

We saw the process, quite an elaborate one, and carried on by machinery, of washing and drying the coffee-beans, sorting them out by size and quality, separating the husks and membranous coverings from the beans before they are fit to be packed and shipped. Coffee is an exhausting crop. Fresh land must be taken in from time to time and the old land allowed to rest; and we were to see next day many tracts where it used to be cultivated, which have now been abandoned to forest because the soil had ceased to repay tillage.

A Wilderness of Deep Valleys.

At last, turning away from the Parahyba, we mounted up a lateral valley, passed through great stretches of rough pasture land into a higher region of thick woods, and halted for the night in the midst of a thunderstorm which pealed and growled and flashed all night long. Next morning the line, after keeping along the heights for some miles, descended through a forest more wonderful in its exuberance than any we had yet seen.

From the summit we looked over a wilderness of deep valleys, the waving green of their tree-tops seamed with the white flash of waterfalls, with many ranges and peaks rising in the far distance, few of whose tops any European foot had pressed, for it is only the bot-only, its roots anchored into some slight roughness of the rock. When a patch of wood has been cut down to the very ground, five years suffice to cover the soil again with a growth of trees and shrubs so rank that they can scarcely be distinguished from the uncut forest all round.

But this swift activity of life is hardly more wonderful than is the variety of forms. Each of the great forests of Europe and North America consists of a few species of trees. But on this Brazilian coast the diversity is endless. Those who have traversed the Amazonian forests, have made the same remark. There as here you may find within a radius of eighty yards, forty kinds of trees growing side by side, species belonging to different families with myriad shapes and hues of leaf and flower.

A City of Blacks.

The coast for some way north from Rio continues high. Before one approaches Bahia (800 miles north) the mountains have receded, and at that city, though picturesque heights are still visible, they lie further back, and scarcely figure in the landscape. The bay of Bahia is singularly beautiful in its vast sweep, as well as in the verdure that fringes its inlets, and the glimpses of distant sunlit hills. Nor is the city, long the capital of Brazil, wanting in interest. There is a quaint, old-fashioned look about the streets and squares, with many a house that has stood unchanged since the eighteenth century.

The upper city tuns along the edge of a steep bluff, sixty or eighty feet above the lower town, which is a single line of street, even more dirty than it is picturesque, occupying the narrow strip between the harbor and the cliff. Here, far more than in Parisianized Rio, one finds the familiar features of a Portuguese town reproduced, irregular and narrow streets, houses, often high, roofed with red tiles, and colored with all sorts of washes, pink, green, blue, and yellow. Sometimes the whole front or side of a house is covered with blue or yellowish brown tiles, a characteristic of Portuguese cities which has come down from Moorish times.

But a still greater contrast between this and southern Brazil is found in the population. In Sao Paulo there are few negroes, in Rio not very many, but here in Bahia all the town seems black. One might be in Africa or the West Indies. It is the same in Pernambuco and indeed all the way to the mouth of the Amazon.

Finding this to be a region filled with colored people as Sao Paulo was with white people, and knowing that a thousand miles further west one would come into a region entirely Indian, one began to realize what a vast country Brazil is, big enough to be carved up into sixteen countries each as large as France.

Greatly Diversified Country.

Were there natural boundaries, such physical features as mountain ranges or deserts, to divide this immense region into sections, the settled parts of Brazil might before now have split apart into different political communities. Nevertheless, though Brazil is physically all one country, it contains regions differing in climate, in economic resources, and in population.

The most northerly part along the frontiers of Guiana and also along a good deal of the coast between the mouth of the Amazon and Cape St. Roque (1,100 miles to the east) is the least valuable, for large tracts are stony and protracted droughts are not uncommon. The extreme north has been hardly at all settled.

The east central part, consisting of the mountain ridges and tablelands referred to, together with slopes which descend on all sides from these highlands, is a region of great natural resources where all tropical crops and fruits can be produced. Most of it is healthy, much of it not too hot for white men to work and thrive, and the magnificent forests, no less than the mines, will make the mountains for many ages to come no less a source of wealth than are the more level tracts. Its weak point is the want of white labor and the inefficiency of black labor.

This tropical region passes imperceptibly into the temperate country which occupies the state of Sao Paulo, Parana, Santa Catharina, and Rio Grande, a section of the country no less fertile than the last and better fitted for European constitutions. Here all sub-tropical products can be raised; here also are forests; and here, where the land has not yet been brought under tillage, there is abundant and excellent pasture for all sorts of live stock. As the east central region is the land of cotton and sugar, so this southern region is the land of coffee and cattle—coffee in its northerly parts, cattle and the cereals in its southern.

There remain the vast spaces of the west and northwest, still so imperfectly explored that it is hard to estimate their economic value. The Amazonian forests, the Selvas, are the land of another great Brazilian staple—rubber. Most parts of the region where Brazil adjoins Bolivia, a vast level or slightly undulating country, partly grassy, partly covered with wood or scrub, is believed to be available either for cultivation or for ranching. At present access is difficult, and markets are far away, but when the districts of Brazil, Uruguay, and Argentina that lie between this region and the coast have been more fully settled, its turn will come.

Where Brazil Leads the World. Taking Brazil as a whole, no great country in the world owned by a European race possesses so large a proportion of land available for the support of human life and productive industry. In the United States there are deserts, and of the gigantic Russian Empire much is desert, and much is frozen waste. But on the Portuguese of Brazil nature has bestowed nothing for which man cannot find use.

VIEW ROYAL

G. H. Barnard M.P.
on Esquimalt
Drydock

"With respect to the drydock, the speaker said that Esquimalt was specifically fixed as its site. (Cheers) What this meant most thinking people must know. It made sure Victoria's ambition to become the centre of the shipbuilding trade of the Province. It assured Esquimalt being maintained as the Pacific naval base. It was a guarantee that the fortified adjacent port would be continued as such, and that there would be maintained here a permanent contingent of troops. (Cheers)." — Colonist.

This plan gives an accurate conception of our Esquimalt Harbor subdivision. It is the most beautifully situated property on that large land-locked body of water. Sloping gently to fine beaches or attractive bays, cleared in parts and in others shaded to just the right extent with Douglas fir, and offering a glorious view from any point of the picturesque and historic harbor, with the Olympic mountains in the distance, it has an irresistible appeal. All we ask is an opportunity to show it. The property, the prices and the terms will do the rest.

View Royal is within easy walking distance of the Gorge carline—Victoria's finest homesteads are locating miles beyond it—Hatley Park, Hon. James Dunsmuir's residence, is one illustration. A motor-boat or a row-boat puts a party on the Esquimalt car in short order. The E. & N. Railway runs through it, and the C.N.P. is just about as close. Besides authoritative report has it that either both or one of these railroads is to be electrified at least as far as the new Colwood Country Club, in which event there would be a service that would bring the subdivision's residents within few minutes of Post Office.

We draw special attention to the property's investment advantages. The Dominion Government has decided to construct one of the world's largest dry docks within a short distance. Within a few hundred yards the E. & N. Railway has established terminals, from which a ferry even now is making daily trips. Esquimalt Harbor is of such importance commercially that it cannot be overlooked. View Royal owners will be able to sell out at a substantial profit either in the immediate or the not distant future.

One of the special charms of our subdivision is its beaches. For years it has been a favorite outing ground. There could be no finer playground for the children on a summer's day. Every quarter-acre lot has waterfront privileges conveyed with it.

Goldstream water on tap. This is another point on which we lay special emphasis. The streets through View Royal have been graded and through all the Esquimalt Waterworks Co., by special arrangement with us, has laid pipes. Thus every purchaser is guaranteed the best water available anywhere in Victoria.

The material prosperity of a country, however, depends less on its natural resources than on the quality of the labor applied to its development and on the intelligence that directs the labor. In these respects Brazil has been less fortunate.

When the Portuguese first settled the coast lands they forced the Indian aborigines to work for them, and in many places destroyed by their severity the bulk of the native population. Negroes began to be imported about A.D. 1600, but not in great numbers until the discovery of diamond and other mines in the inland country created a sudden demand for labor. After that, there came a large importation of slaves, for agricultural as well as for mining purposes, from all the Portuguese dominions of Africa, and from the Congo regions; and this went on, though latterly much reduced down to our own time. Thus the working population of the tropical region

Grandes do Sul, and there are now, it is said, about two hundred thousand, forming a compact community which preserves its national habits and manages its own affairs with little interference by the central government. It is, in fact, disposed to resent any such interference, and to "run things" in its own solid German way.

Even larger is the number of Italians who in more recent years have entered these southern states. The labor on the great coffee estates of Sao Paulo is almost entirely Italian; and in Rio Grande they have become well-to-do peasant proprietors, living in less comfort than their German neighbors.

Thus the working population of the tropical region

Grandes do Sul, and there are now, it is said, about two hundred thousand, forming a compact community which preserves its national habits and manages its own affairs with little interference by the central government. It is, in fact, disposed to resent any such interference, and to "run things" in its own solid German way.

became largely, and in the north, predominantly negro.

Slavery was abolished by successive stages, the last of which was reached in 1888. For a time the plantation culture was disorganized but most of the freed men ultimately returned to work.

It is by their labor that sugar and cotton are raised to-day, though they take life very easily, and often content themselves with just so much exertion on just so many days a week as is needed to provide them with food and the other scanty necessities of their life.

The Mixed Blood of the Brazilian.

But what of the Brazilian people itself? The Brazilian is primarily a Portuguese in the outlines of his mind and character. He has, however, been modified by intermixture with two but working just as steadily. This better quality of population has largely gone to making the southern states the most progressive part of Brazil.

The foreign element in Brazil is more important by its energy and industry than by its numbers, for it probably little exceeds a million all told, and the total population of the republic may approach nineteen or twenty millions.

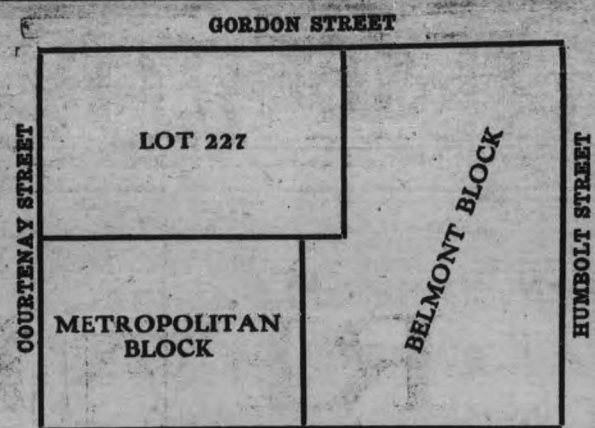

Estates (except in the extreme south) are extensive; near neighbors are few; families are often large; the plantation is a sort of little principality, and its owner with his fellow-proprietors is allowed, despite all

Does this mean anything to you? Are you going to let the other man have all the gain?

Improvements are coming. The advent of improvement (paved streets, sidewalks, quick means of transportation, etc.) are responsible for the rise in values. The preparing and paving the way for the homeseeker causes vacant property to double in value (for comparison take the quick rise in value and the keen demand for Fairfield and Hollywood Park lots). Improvements alone were responsible for this.

other races. The first of these is the native Indian. The settler both in Sao Paulo and along the northeastern coast, while they killed most of the Indian men either in flight or by working them to death as slaves, intermarried freely with Indian women.

The second modifying influence is that of the imported Africans. When the first slave ships disgorged their cargoes on the Atlantic coast, the aborigines of those districts had already been either killed off or merged in the Portuguese population, so that the mingling of Indian and negro blood which is supposed to produce an especially undesirable class of citizens was comparatively small. The intermarriage of blacks and whites had, however, gone on apace, and the negroes constitute a large, the mulattoes and quadroons a still larger, percentage of the population. Some observers in hold that the colored people, taken all together, equal or outnumber the whites.

The Brazilian is primarily a man of the country, not of the city. Rio, large as it is, is a less potent factor than Buenos Aires is in Argentina, or Santiago in Chile. The landowner loves his rural life, as did the Virginian planter in North America before the Civil War, and lives on the fazenda in a sort of semi-feudal patriarchal way, often with grown-up sons and daughters around him.

Estates (except in the extreme south) are extensive; near neighbors are few; families are often large; the plantation is a sort of little principality, and its owner with his fellow-proprietors is allowed, despite all democratic theory, to direct the politics of the district just as in England, eighty years ago, the county families used to control local affairs and guide the choice of representatives in parliament.

If Only the Yankees Had Held of Brazil.

It is hard to convey the impression with which one sees the shores of Brazil sink below the horizon after coasting along them for three thousand miles from the Uruguayan border to Pernambuco, and coming to know something of the boundless wealth which Nature has lavished upon man in this vast land. Not even the great North American republic has a territory at once so large and so productive. What will be its future? Is the people worthy of such an inheritance?

The first ought that rises in the mind of those who are possessed, as in this age we all more or less are, by the passion for the development of natural resources, is a feeling of regret that a West European race, powerful by its numbers and its skill, say the North American or German or English, has not, to use the familiar phrase, "got the thing in hand." The white part of the Brazilian nation—and it is only that part that need be considered—seems altogether too small for the tasks which the possession of the country imposes.

"How men from the Mississippi would make things hum along the Amazon and the Parana!" says the traveller from the United States. In thirty years, Brazil would have fifty millions of such inhabitants. Sicamers would ply upon the rivers, railways

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

The things you are interested in will turn out well, if you give them your attention. Avoid entering into schemes without assuring yourself that they are worthy. Risks in general are unfavorable to you.

Those born to-day will have most good qualities except patience. This will cause them to make many mistakes in judgment and will bring them to disagreements, because they have not taken care to inform themselves before acting. In spite of errors they will succeed in life.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

It is one hundred and twenty-four years ago since Alexander Mackenzie, then a young man of about twenty-six, set off from the North West Company's fort—Chipewyan—on Lake Athabasca, for the Arctic Ocean. He was accompanied by four French-Canadian "voyageurs"—two of whom had their wives with them—and a young German, in one large canoe. An Indian called "the English Chief" and two of his wives followed in another, and two Indians, whom Mackenzie had engaged to hunt and act as interpreters were in a third canoe. The explorers paddled for a week down the Slave river only to find Slave lake still covered with ice. This caused a delay of five days, but before the end of the month they were afloat on the river now bearing the name of the English Chief. They had travelled so far north that the day was twenty hours long. On the way they fell in with Indians who tried to frighten them back with stories of terrible cataraacts and bloodthirsty monsters, but on July 12th, they reached an arm of the Arctic ocean. There Ma kenzie set up a post bearing his name, and early in September he was back again at Fort Chipewyan.

Robert Bell, the great Canadian geologist, geographer and explorer, was born in Toronto seventy-two years ago to-day, June 3, 1841. His father was the Rev. Andrew Bell, and his grandfather the Rev. William Bell, both of the Church of Scotland. He was educated at McGill and Edinburgh universities, and in 1857, joined the Geological Survey of Canada, of which he later became director. He took part in topographical and geological surveys in all parts of the Dominion. He was geologist, naturalist and medical officer of the Neptune expedition in 1884, and of the Alert expedition the following year. He was in the strait and bay; geologist on the Diana expedition in 1897, when he traversed the south coast of Baffinland and penetrated to the Great Lakes in the interior, and surveyor of the Athabasca, Beaver, Winnipeg, Slave, Churchill, Hayes, Nelson, English, Albany, Nisqually, Kenogami, Moose, Broadback, Nottaweg, Hare, and other rivers, as well as of many lakes. His reports and papers, over 200 in number, are a rich mine of scientific information, covering the fields of geology, biology, geography and the folk-lore and archaeology of the Canadian Indians. He was one of the founders of the Royal Society of Canada, which he represented at the International Geological Congress in Vienna ten years ago. On one of his expeditions Dr. Bell was made honorary chief of the Algonquin Indians of Grand Lake. His attainments and recognition of the King's gold medal of the American Geographical Society was conferred upon him the same year. Miriam Wentworth Gifford, famous clergyman and author, was born in Newcastle, Ont., sixty-two years ago to-day, and entered the Methodist ministry in Canada in 1871.

a fondness for water, fresh from the well. (Fish from the Grand river, near by, often appeared on the Taylor table, and fish notoriously require water to swim in.) So it happened that the young couple met frequently at the well, and young "Jeff" held the bucket while Betty drank. It was not long until Lieut. Davis was a constant caller at the Taylor home.

Fort Gibson, the home of Zachary Taylor, future president of the United States, and of Jefferson Davis, future president of the Confederacy, also attracted many other famous men by its wild and picturesque surroundings. Washington Irving dwelt for some time at the old fort, and Henry M. Stanley, in his youth, taught school there. At Fort Gibson lies buried the remains of Tallina, the Cherokee maiden who was the wife of Gen. Sam Houston.

After the marriage of Jefferson Davis and Betty Taylor the former left the army and bought a cotton plantation in Mississippi. From that state he went to Congress. When the Mexican war broke out he joined the army of his father-in-law, "Old Rough and Ready."

After that conflict he returned to the political arena, and as a United States senator was an ardent champion of state rights. Later, as secretary of war in the cabinet of President Pierce he inaugurated the system of explorations in the West, both for geographical purposes and for the determination of the best route for a railroad to the Pacific coast. He was one of the first to advocate such a transcontinental route, and he may well be called the father of all the great highways of steel that now stretch across North America in the United States and Canada.

Young Davis graduated from West Point in 1823, and soon afterwards saw active service in the Black Hawk Indian war in Wisconsin. He was employed later in various expeditions against the Pawnees, Comanches and other "hostiles," and was promoted for gallantry to the rank of first lieutenant of dragoons.

When Zachary Taylor was stationed at Fort Gibson he lived with his family in a house built of logs, with an old-fashioned fireplace and stone chimney, and surrounded by giant trees. The house and the trees are still standing. Near the house is a well, with framework of ancient design and a "moss-covered bucket," and the youthful lieutenant, Jefferson Davis, had not been long at Fort Gibson when he developed a terrible thirst. A Kentuckian by birth, he could hardly have been suspected of a fondness for water as a beverage, and yet such was the case. Whenever he had a moment's leisure Lieut. Davis remembered his thirst, and immediately repaired to the well to quench it. Probably it was only a coincidence that pretty Betty Taylor, daughter of the stern Zachary, also had

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE WILL OUTLINE PLANS

Public Meeting at Alexandra Club Will Be Held To-morrow Evening

Interest in the carnival is increasing day by day, and as the date approaches people are awakening to a realization of their responsibilities as citizens with regard to the big enterprise on which a committee of special enthusiasts have been working for some time past.

It is on account of this growth of interest that the committee feels impelled to hold the public meeting to-morrow evening in the Alexandra Club for the purpose of placing before the citizens a full outline of their plans and their accomplishments in this connection up to the present time. The meeting, they feel, is due more particularly to all who have subscribed toward the undertaking, as well as to those who have been approached for subscriptions.

At to-morrow night's meeting it is anticipated that among those present, and who will speak, will be the premier, Sir Richard McBride; the mayor, J. J. Shalloo, the president of the board of trade, and Dean Duffell, and during the evening the entire programme, as outlined up to the present, will be announced. Prof. Nagel's orchestra will provide several musical selections, and the committee hope to see a representative gathering of Victoria citizens, both men and women, who will add to the interest of the committee some of that enthusiasm which goes a great way in assisting such an enterprise.

Citizens have apparently commenced to realize that the Victoria carnival week is drawing quite near, and that there is very little time left in which to complete the necessary arrangements. It is rather difficult at the present time for the public to appreciate just how much hard work has been devoted to forming such plans as have been made up to the present, but when they are confronted with the statement that from fifteen to twenty-five men have been meeting two, three, and sometimes even four times weekly for the past five months in order to perfect the arrangements, it may give some idea of the extent of the work they have accomplished. The success of the carnival, the committee point out, does not mean anything more to the members of the committee than it does to every citizen of Victoria, who should take a pride in making the event a superb success, and one which will compare more than favorably with the carnivals and festivals prepared by neighboring cities.

MEETINGS

Organ Recital, Metropolitan Choir.—This evening there will be an organ recital and choir concert at the Metropolitan Methodist church, under Edward Parsons, organist, and G. A. Downard, choir leader. The programme is particularly attractive, and of a very varied character. Among the vocalists who will take part are Messrs. Quirk, W. R. Francis, the Misses Kate Edie and Sherrill, and Mrs. Tickner. The choir will sing Gault's well-known part song, "The Singers." "The Lullaby of Life," and "Bells of St. Michael's Tower." Among the organ solo will be the overture to Rossini's "William Tell." The Metropolitan Male Quartette will also take part.

Ladies of the Macabees.—The regular meeting of the Baxter Hive of the Ladies of the Macabees will be held to-night in the A. O. U. W. hall at 8 o'clock.

OBITUARY RECORD

The death occurred this morning at St. Joseph's hospital of Helen Lambert, wife of Mervyn H. Lambert. The deceased, who was 23 years of age, was a native of Feikie County, Clare Island, and is survived by her husband, her mother, several brothers and sisters, all residing at Clare Island. The deceased had been in the city for the past two months, and prior to coming here had lived for some time at 215 Dufferin street, Vancouver. The funeral will take place from the Sand-Fulton parlors on Thursday morning at 2:45, thence to St. Andrew's cathedral, where mass will be said.

FIGHT SHORT WEIGHTS.
Civic Inspector of Weights and Measures Proposed by Mayor.

That the city should have an inspector of weights and measures was the purport of a letter from the mayor to the city council last night. The government inspector only tested scales when they were manufactured and did nothing to alleviate the short weight evil, he contended. References to the butcher's heavy hand on the scale and to the small size of the butter roll and the loaf of bread were made, and it was finally decided to ask the solicitor

FIRST THINGS

FIRST U. S. FLAG IN FRISCO.
The first ship to unfurl the United States flag in San Francisco Bay was the Portsmouth, which arrived in the harbor of the Golden Gate city sixty-seven years ago to-day, June 3, 1846. The Portsmouth, second of her name and built at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard in 1843, took a prominent part in the operations on the California coast during the Mexican war. In the month following her arrival in San Francisco harbor a force was landed at Yerba Buena, which took possession of San Francisco and hoisted the United States flag in front of the custom house. At that time the Portsmouth was commanded by Commander J. B. Montgomery, and was one of the squadron of Commodore J. D. Sloat. She was a vessel of 846 tons, and carried from fourteen to twenty-two guns. She was one of the fastest ships in the United States navy in the old days of sailing vessels. After the Mexican war the Portsmouth was for many years in active service in the African, Pacific and East Indian squadrons. It has been proposed that she be the first ship to pass through the Panama canal.

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR GOOD SCOTLAND WOOL

Possible That Blackfaced Product May Lose Position Under New Tariff

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 3.—The demand for all good wools has been very active throughout the whole of the past year, and there are no signs of any turn in this tide of prosperity. Not only has the home trade been remarkably good, but Russia, Germany and Italy were also important buyers, and this resulted in a remarkable clearance of goods very early in the season.

Regarding the proposed changes in the American tariff it is possible that blackfaced wool may lose the position of preference that it has held for many years, that is, should the new tariff take the shape of a uniform duty on all the different kinds of wool. Under the present arrangements blackfaced only pays a duty of 7 cents per pound, against 11 to 12 cents for other wools. The trade in blackfaced has been very strong all the year and prices have gradually risen as the season progressed.

The tweed trade in the border districts have in many cases as much as they can do, and trade with dyers shows no falling off. Hosiery factories are in a very active state, all firms having as much as they can do, and it is many years since such a favorable all-round condition of matters has prevailed in the Scottish wool trade.

LOTS OR ACREAGE

The Most Delightful Homesites on the Market
at Easy Prices and Terms

If you could have been one of those who made the delightful trip to Mount Baker Park yesterday you would not doubt the sincerity of our statement when we say that this property is destined to revolutionize the residential idea in Victoria. Rapid transit now makes possible the last word in inexpensive, comfortable, living—a home secluded and yet central, a home with every convenience yet marked by the charm of magnificent surroundings and commanding a view that has no equal in Western Canada for pure loveliness.

Received a host of compliments yesterday, chief among which were the direct orders for homesites that reached our offices this morning. The sites in this improved residence park are limited. When they have been sold out there can be no counterpart of this delightful spot. Nature made but ONE Mount Baker Park. Therefore, you who have still to choose your homes, don't hesitate a moment. Clip and mail the attached coupon NOW, this minute. Examine the handsome album of views it will bring to you, without obligating you at all—and then phone us for a motor and SEE the property.

Country Air Country View City Advantages

There is no space in this advertisement to detail the many advantages of Mount Baker Park. Lying on Bazan Bay and Haro Strait—get out the map—it slopes, like a great amphitheatre, towards the water. In such weather as we are now enjoying the prospect is indescribably magnificent. Sidney and James Island, the bay and the straits, in the far distance the dim outline of Victoria, stand out as if painted; beyond rises Mount Baker, clear, distinct, wonderfully beautiful with its aura of rose mists.

Mount Baker Park is connected with Victoria by both electric and steam lines. The new B. C. suburban traverses the property and has a station close by. The C. N. R. line—contract for the grading of which will be let in a few days—also touches the property and a station has been located right on our boundary line. Light and power will be supplied as desired by the B. C. Electric.

The improvements in Mount Baker Park insure the best effect and the greatest efficiency. Waterfront lots are uniformly 74 feet wide and 200 to 300 feet deep. At the rear of these there is a graded and gravelled road. The balance of the property lies in lots of from 2 to 5 acres each. The streets on the property are all finished similar to main roads on the Peninsula—and these are famous.

The East Saanich Road extends across the rear of the property. This road will eventually be asphalt-paved right to Sidney.

Mount Baker Park is governed by reasonable and just building restrictions. You will be protected, when you build your home, from the possibility of uncivilized neighbors.

Every lot in Mount Baker Park is a view lot. No matter where you select, the natural slope of the ground assures you a PERMANENT view.

SHEARWATER ARRIVES

Sloop Returns to Esquimalt After Long Southern Cruise.

Flying colors in honor of the King's birthday, the twin-screw sloop Shearwater, Commander Frederick Walter, dropped anchor in Esquimalt harbor this forenoon. A royal salute was fired. The Shearwater has been absent on a long cruise, occupying six months, during which time she has been looking after British interests in the south, and particularly on the coast of Mexico during the progress of the revolution. She visited the ports of Acapulco and Mazatlan, and other ports.

She was expected to arrive some days ago but was delayed. She had a pleasant trip up the coast, enjoying fine weather practically all the way. The officers and crew return to this port in the best of health after their sojourn in the south.

MAY RAISE FUNDS.

Ladies' Auxiliary of Seamen's Institute May Sell Buttonholes at Empress' Arrival.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Seamen's Institute at its meeting this morning appointed a committee of ladies to discuss the question of whether or not something should be done on the occasion of the arrival here of the Empress of Russia on Saturday next, when it was considered that some scheme of raising money for the funds should be adopted, such as selling buttonholes, etc., in aid of the Seamen's Institute Fund.

The meeting also referred to the holding of a garden party during the next few weeks at some date not yet fixed. Additional business included the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports, both of which were quite satisfactory.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET.

Contributors During Past Month Thanked; Rooms Will Re-main Open.

At the meeting of the King's Daughters this morning in the King's Daughters' rest room, Courtney street, a motion was passed thanking the following ladies for contributions and donations during the past month: Mrs. Jenner, Mrs. Gibson, Miss Bone, Miss Saunders, Mrs. McTavish, Miss Marian Dunsmuir, Mrs. Brumpton. Several ladies reported that they would be willing to assist in the rest rooms during the ensuing months, as a number of the ladies who have lent their services during the past few months are leaving the city for short holidays. Names will be gratefully received by the president, Miss Letch, of any others who will assist. The rest rooms will not, as rumored in one or two quarters, close down during the summer, as the King's Daughters have no intention whatever of discontinuing a work which has proved so helpful and successful.

There is a German South America Institute at Aix-la-Chapelle for the purpose of furthering intellectual and commercial relations with South America.

Surveyors Drowned.—A telegram received by Green Bros., Burden & Company, this morning, confirmed the news published in the Times yesterday of the death of Odo Chamberlain, Vancouver, and Fred Lucas, Fort George, at the mouth of the Fraser and the Willow rivers, by the capsizing of their canoe. Fred Lucas had been with the firm as a surveyor for five years and for the past three years he had been living at Fort George and was working in that district. He came from Fire Valley, in the Kootenays, and was very popular with his colleagues. Odo Chamberlain was a Vancouver man, and his mother lives in that city. No details have been received here of the accident.

In 1911 the cultivated area in Canada was 32,404,119 acres, which yielded a harvest valued at $653,000,000. The production of wheat was 22,851,000 bushels, worth over $128,000,000.

IRREGULAR MARKET FOR WALL STREET

Specialties Subject to Pressure With Better Feeling for Canadian Pacific

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, June 3.—The market acted irregularly most of the session, but liquidation was less in evidence, although specialties were subject to pressure. There was better feeling in regard to Canadian Pacific, which held steady at an opening gain of four points. The pressure seen in American Smelters was a matter of concern, but on the whole general prices were improved at the close.

CANADIAN PACIFIC*DECLINE EXPLAINED

New York Post Gives Reasons for Drop of Stock to 215

Toronto, June 3.—The New York Post explains the decline of C. P. R. to 215 when a year ago it was confidently predicted that the selling price would go to 233. "Canadian Pacific's rapidly increasing earning power and policy raising working capital by the sale of stock with rights to shareholders has been a matter of public knowledge; hence the last few years a large percentage of stock has found its way into the hands of European and Canadian speculators. Then each new issue was followed by new high records, also increased dividend rates. It was forced into liquidation by Berlin, following the Balkan outbreak, which brought about the decline to 215 and then followed the usual stock exchange rally. Secondary decline to present low was due to heavy selling in Canada because Dominion investors were having trouble renewing loans in Europe. Under such conditions speculative action and market high-priced stocks like C. P. R. instead of shares less favorably known. Despite the decline, large blocks are still held in the United States and were bought at the first lowering and still compare favorably with Reading, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio."

SELLING PRESSURE ON CHICAGO WHEAT

Strong Interests Accumulate Stocks on Break With Recovery for July

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, June 3.—Bearish feeling in the local wheat trade growing out of the ease with which prices were given a sharp reaction yesterday, following the recent dry weather advance, encouraged additional selling pressure early today. The local trade got over gold at the bottom. Some strong interests accumulated the wheat on the break. The news the last hour of the session was unfavorable, very conservative authorities from trade sending in complaint of poor harvest outlook for the West. Market started on a very strong turn about midday, and the recovery in price for July was exactly one cent from the low point, the close at top La Salle street houses were conspicuous as buyers of wheat around bottom prices. A group of local bear leaders who made something of a drive at prices during the morning were obliged to change front and buy on the strong rally. The big commission concerns appeared to have good volume of buying orders as soon as the market began to harden. A bullish demonstration in the corn trade no doubt influenced buying of wheat somewhat the last hour. A number of adverse reports in regard to the harvest in the West, and the fact that some very low temperatures are appearing from the far northwest, and Minneapolis and Duluth prices had strong rebounds from early break. St. Louis and Kansas City prices were up one cent or more from the bottom. There is a feeling in the trade that the last part of the year will be a much more active one than the first part of the year, and this cannot be made good by the recent rains.

EVIDENCE GOES TO DISPROVE CHARGES

Commission on Quarantine Holds Session; Employees' Evidence

WITNESSES SHOW SUPPLIES NOT MISUSED

Testimony Given by Chief Steward and Book-keeper at Station

That scrupulous care has always been exercised to keep Dr. Watt's supplies separate and distinct from those required in the government service, formed the kernel of all the evidence given in the quarantine inquiry yesterday, when charges against the director of the station were examined. Commissioners Moore had before him in the witness box most of the employees on the station, including also the man on Dr. Watt's ranch, who proved a most important witness.

H. B. Robertson, counsel for Dr. Watt, confined his attention almost exclusively to proving that the charge, whether direct or indirect, that Dr. Watt has misappropriated government supplies, was not based on any cogent facts. Consequently the purchase of feed for chickens and guinea pigs which had been supplied by Scott & Peden, was most thoroughly investigated, together with the account, the bill of lading and the voucher. These were placed among the exhibits of the commission.

William Young, the nightwatchman, was among the first to take the stand. He had no complaint whatever to make against Dr. Watt. On May 3 he had been away from the station by the permission of the medical superintendent. In answer to an inquiry he had said that there was nothing strange in this as he often got leave to visit the city. Feed supplies for the station, he said, were handled by the government launch.

James Saltmarsh, a general laborer on the station, who was the next witness called, said that he had been working for fourteen months steadily on the station and for four years off and on.

Commissioner Moore: "Have you ever had anything to do with the stores?"

Witness: "Nothing whatever."

"When the Montague was in what were you doing?"

"Attending to the sick man at the isolation hospital."

"Had he proper attention?"

"He had all that was coming to him."

Story of a Cheque.

Mr. Saltmarsh was very much agitated over a cheque which had been paid to him for which he had to wait for several months, and for which when he did get, he had to pay 75 cents to get cashed. He explained in answer to questions that the cheque had been drawn by the British Columbia Packing company in his favor. Dr. Watt explained that the witness had received the cheque from the Packing company because the company had to pay charges for disinfectant used. As she was not a foreign boat, but a local one, the provincial board of health was responsible, as it requested the fumigating to be done.

John Wallace, who keeps the government stores at the station, the next witness called, said that it was a common practice for the residents at the quarantine station to borrow from the government supplies, but these were always replaced. A careful account was kept of such and the method was found most convenient as there was no shop of any kind thereabouts.

Witness was then asked to glance at a voucher which was on exhibition. He recognized the handwriting on it as his own. He stated for the benefit of the commission that all vouchers were made out in duplicate and when Dr. Hunter had received the November accounts early in December, they were pinned together. Amongst them was a duplicate voucher made out in favor of the British Columbia Telephone Company on which the total amount was set out, but no detailed statement. He had pointed this fact out to Dr. Hunter. He went on to explain that on the bill sent in by Scott & Peden the date had been changed back to November 30 in order that the firm might receive the payment for the same a month earlier. This was never done unless the goods were first delivered. In any case it was done merely for the convenience of the firms concerned.

Mr. Wallace admitted that he kept the books for the station, and that the departments made their regulations for supplies to him. He testified that no feed had been purchased by the station with the exception of that shown on the Scott and Peden account. This feed had been for chickens and guinea pigs belonging to the government. As a rule there was not enough stock on hand to call for a frequent stocktaking.

Charles Chown stated he was an assistant on the ground. He had charge of the storehouses in which the feed was placed. He had to look after the feeding of the chickens. He testified that everything brought to the government stables was used only for government purposes.

On Dr. Watt's Ranch.

Arthur C. Bernhard stated that he was in charge of Dr. Watt's ranch, which adjoined the station, but he had left the doctor's employ last Saturday after working there for seventeen months. He told the commissioner, how, when first engaged the doctor had cautioned him about the handling of supplies. He averred that Dr. Hunter was mistaken when he said he saw him hauling stuff on December 2. He had not hauled any until December 3, and then only feed belonging to the director of the station personally.

In answer to questions put to him by E. E. Wootton, counsel for the crown, he said that he never carried anything to Dr. Watt's house, which had not the name on it. All the bags used for carrying feed for Dr. Watt's ranch, had his name painted on them so that there could be no possibility of mistake. He admitted that the quarantine station was supplied with milk from the superintendent's ranch.

One witness was called to testify to the condition of the baths to which exception had been taken by one of the passengers on the Montague. This was William Grimthe. On that day he had been down at 7 a. m. to see that everything was in good order. He himself had cleaned the baths, and he could vouch for their cleanliness. It might have been that there was a little dirt on the floor, but he thought there could not have been enough to make the place at all objectionable as had been said. He had never, in all his experience, heard any man but Mr. Graham complain of the state of affairs.

The inquiry was adjourned at this stage until Friday morning next at 10.30.
